

PRESIDENT SAYS GARNER HOLDS UP RELIEF BILL

Charges Failure of Compromise Effort Is Due to Speaker's Stand for Loans to Individuals Provision.

GARNER ADDRESSES HOUSE ON BILL

Says Executive Favors Aid—Only Select Clientele—Couples Stand on Section White House Opposes.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—President Hoover late today issued a formal statement directly charging Speaker Garner with responsibility for the failure of efforts to reach an agreement between the executive and legislative branches on the $2,122,000,000 Wagner-Garner relief bill.

The President spoke almost simultaneously with a new agreement by congressional conferees on the bill to retain a provision for loans to individuals, which is vigorously opposed by him.

Mr. Hoover said the bone of contention was the clause providing for loans to individuals under the act, and that it would have been possible to reach an agreement were it not for the insistence of the Speaker on one point.

The President labeled the individual loan clause "a deception." "Should the bill pass with this provision in it," Mr. Hoover asserted, "I am determined that there shall be relief legislation at the session of Congress," he said, "I cannot accept the proposal to insist upon the provision for loans to individuals."

The conferees completed a re-draft of the measure and will report it to the House for consideration tomorrow.

It was headed for a presidential veto, however, because of the inclusion of provision for loans to individuals from the Reconstruction Corporation.

The conferees, however, drastically modified the bill to meet some of the President's objections, making the entire $2,000,000,000 emergency relief fund eligible for allocation according to need instead of according to giving the President discretion on some of the public works program.

Garner will fight. In a dramatic address to the House, Speaker Garner told his colleagues today that he would fight to the end against President Hoover's views in relief legislation.

Taking the floor in a surprise move after conferences between congressional leaders and Mr. Hoover had ended in a deadlock, the Speaker shouted that the Chief Executive wanted a "selected clientele" to reap the benefits of the Reconstruction Corporation.

"We propose to say to the President that there shall be no more relief legislation," Garner roared as he packed galleries and the silent members listened intently.

"I can say now, and I have the President's authority for it, that this country is in worse shape than it has been in its history," Garner continued.

STATE FOOD ADMINISTRATOR NAMED IN CALIFORNIA

New Officer to Utilize Surpluses of Products for Relief of Hungers.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 6.—The office of State Food Administrator to utilize the surpluses of California products in relieving "hunger, want and privation," was established yesterday by Gov. James Rolph Jr.

Director Dudley Moulton of the State Department of Agriculture was named administrator, and Simon J. Lubin of Sacramento was put in charge of finding outlets for food surpluses in other states.

Moulton plans to co-operate with relief organizations in distributing fruits, vegetables and grain which growers have said would be permitted to rot. Competition with regular marketing agencies will be avoided, he said.

J. B. AND TRACY DRAKE SUE AS WELCHERS IN STOCK DEAL

Brokerage Firm Sues to Recover $242,000 From Chicago Hotel Owners.

CHICAGO, July 6.—John B. Drake and Tracy Drake, owners of Drake and Blackstone Hotels, were accused before Superior Judge Walter P. Steffen today of welching on a stock market deal.

They appeared personally to defend a suit started by Stein, Alstirn & Co., brokers, who seek to recover $242,000 from the Drakes. They asked Attorney Robert Cantwell to take two months and prepare a bill of particulars, but Cantwell said he would file the bill immediately and asked that the trial be speeded because of a reorganization of the two hotels. Judge Steffen directed the Drakes to file their answer by Aug. 1.

SMITH REYNOLDS, SON OF TOBACCO MAN, ENDS LIFE

Member of Wealthy Family Shoots Self After Party in His Home in Winston-Salem, N. C.

MARRIED TWICE THOUGH ONLY 20

Wed Libby Holman, Singer, After Anne Cannon, Textile Heiress, Obtained Reno Divorce.

By the Associated Press. WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 6.—Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old heir to the R. J. Reynolds tobacco fortune, shot and fatally wounded himself early today on a sleeping porch adjoining the bedroom of his wife, the former Libby Holman, Broadway singer, in his home here.

Dr. William Dalton, County Coroner, late this afternoon said he was recording the death as a suicide.

Reynolds died in a hospital at dawn, four hours after he was taken there unconscious from the bullet wound. He never recovered consciousness.

He and Mrs. Reynolds gave an informal dinner party last night. All the guests left about midnight with the exception of Ab. Walker, Winston-Salem, a close friend of Reynolds, and Miss Blanche Yeager, New York, friend of Mrs. Reynolds and her house guest.

Walker, who had been invited to spend the night, said he was on the lower floor closing windows, when he heard the muffled report of a shot and then heard Mrs. Reynolds scream. He found Reynolds on the sleeping porch unconscious from a bullet wound in the head.

On the floor by the body was an automatic pistol.

Married Textile Heiress.

Young Reynolds first came into public notice three years ago when, after an early morning ride into South Carolina in her father's automobile, he married Anne Cannon, Concord (N. C.) textile heiress.

The troubles of this marriage were numerous, and shortly after the wedding, Reynolds was settling $1,000,000 on their infant child. A few months ago he flew her to Reno in his airplane and she obtained a divorce.

Shortly thereafter she announced her engagement to B. Frank Smith Jr., Charlotte hardware man, and almost simultaneously with her second wedding came word of the marriage several weeks before Reynolds and Miss Holman.

Mrs. Reynolds is 26. She rose to prominence on Broadway through her contralto singing in the "First Little Show" and her dancing with Clifton Webb.

The former Miss Holman is the daughter of a Cincinnati attorney. She was graduated from the University of Cincinnati where she studied law.

Reynolds' interest in aviation prompted him to make several airplane trips, including one about the Far East with Jean Asolant, French flyer. He was returning from this trip when Miss Holman went to Hawaii to meet him and they were married there.

Reynolds was the youngest son of R. J. Reynolds, founder of the tobacco fortune. An elder brother, R. J. Reynolds Jr., engaged in numerous escapades. Like Smith, he has been highly interested in aviation, and at one time owned Roosevelt Field, near New York.

About two years ago in England the automobile of R. J. Reynolds Jr. struck and killed a cyclist. Reynolds was arrested, convicted of reckless driving and served a prison sentence under the name of R. Joshua Reynolds. Members of the Reynolds household said R. J. Reynolds Jr. was now in Europe.

Besides his brother, Smith Reynolds is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Charles Babcock and Mrs. Henry Walker Bagley, both of New York. W. N. Reynolds, racing enthusiast, is an uncle.

FRANCE, GERMANY SAID TO MODIFY VERSAILLES TERMS

Treaty Abrogated In-So-Far as Reparations Are Concerned, It Is Reported at Lausanne.

M'DONALD CALLS FOR A SHOWDOWN

Draft Settlement Subject of Conference After Premier MacDonald Announces He Is Going Home.

By the Associated Press. LAUSANNE, Switzerland, July 6.—France and Germany have virtually reached an accord on all points at issue in the reparations conference, an official statement from the British delegation said this evening.

Earlier it had been reported that a compromise treaty solved the German "war guilt" controversy by inserting not the phrase: "The treaty of Versailles, insofar as it concerns reparations is hereby abrogated."

The phrase reads: "The treaty of Versailles, in so far as it concerns reparations, is hereby abrogated." The draft treaty was the subject of a conference this evening between Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and Chancellor von Papen of Germany and Premier Herriot of France.

MacDonald said last night that there would have to be a settlement by tomorrow, because he was going home Thursday night.

The French are sponsors of a plan which would make cancellation of reparations conditional on revision by the United States of the debts due from the World War allies. Germany has declined to accept any proposal linking reparations and the Allies' debts.

France proposed that Germany deposit a bond of several billion marks with the World Bank in lieu of reparations annuities. Part of the total would be distributed among the Governments receiving reparations. The rest would be used for the economic reconstruction of Europe.

Germany balked at the amount of the bond and offered a smaller figure. Premier Herriot of France said at first it would be impossible for him to reduce the original figure, but subsequently he did compromise and the amount now mentioned varies between two and four billion marks ($500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000).

Premier Herriot declared last night that either the United States must revise war debt schedules or Germany must continue to pay reparations under the Young plan.

Herriot's declaration was given to the press in explanation of the French demand for a safeguarding clause, protecting the French reparations income in case the United States remains adamant on the debts.

Chancellor von Papen proposed that Germany pay about $600,000,000 on condition that the war guilt clause be removed from the treaty. It was indicated that the Germans were willing to increase the amount of the lump sum proposed in lieu of reparations annuities if they could obtain moral vindication.

From the Italian delegation it was reported that a satisfactory arrangement had been reached regarding Italy's debts to England.

Advance to Pere Marquette by R. F. C. Approved.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today approved a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan of $3,000,000 to the Pere Marquette Railway Co.

The loan is to run three years and is to pay on Aug. 1 the principal amount of Lake Erie & Detroit division 4 1/2 per cent collateral trust bonds. The security to be pledged with the corporation is $3,000,000 first mortgage series C, 4 1/2 per cent gold bonds of the Pere Marquette road.

U. S. FLYERS CROSS ATLANTIC AND LAND IN BERLIN AFTER 2500-MILE, 19-HOUR FLIGHT

WOMAN CLEARED IN COCKTAIL PARTY KILLING IN LONDON

Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney Acquitted by Jury on Both Murder and Manslaughter Counts.

SHE FAINTS WHEN SHE HEARS VERDICT

Court Packed to Suffocation as Trial of Daughter of Wealthy Stock Broker Draws to Close.

LONDON, July 6.—Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, accused of killing William Scott Stephen after a cocktail party in her apartment, was acquitted by a jury today on both murder and manslaughter counts.

She also was exonerated on another indictment charging intent to do Stephen grievous bodily harm, based on evidence that prior to the killing she once had shot at him, but missed.

The jury was out a little less than two hours having received the case at 2:55 p. m.

When she realized that the jury had acquitted her, Mrs. Barney collapsed and was carried from the courtroom virtually unconscious.

Lady Mullens, her mother, also collapsed, but was revived.

Huge Crowd Outside.

A crowd of several thousand had gathered outside Old Bailey. When word spread that a verdict had been reached, the police rushed the police lines in an effort to break into the courtroom, but the police held.

It was a little after 5 p. m. when the big gates of the Old Bailey yard swung open and the police cleared a path for her limousine.

Mrs. Barney sat smoking a cigarette. Sir John, her father and wealthy stock broker, sat on one side, and Lady Mullens on the other.

Justice Humphreys, presiding, had instructed the jury that unless it found the defendant had fired the fatal shot with intent to kill she could not be convicted.

The courtroom was packed to suffocation. Every seat was occupied, men stood shoulder to shoulder in the gangway and bearded barristers sat on steps back of the counsel engaged in the case.

From the public gallery looked down a crush of society women, distinguished authors and actors who have thronged the courtroom each day.

Condemns Gloating in Gallery. The Court's charge to the jury followed a 90-minute summation by Sir Patrick Hastings for the defense. His first remarks were a rebuke for the people in the gallery, who, he said, "have been here the last two or three days, no doubt enjoying and gloating over every expression of agony."

"We rather despise some of the people here and loathe these things," he added.

At the beginning of his charge, Justice Humphreys said Sir Patrick's speech for the defense was the finest he ever had heard in a court of law.

Sir Patrick repeated his client's story of the killing. Stephen was shot to death early in the morning of May 31, after a party in Mrs. Barney's apartment in Mayfair. On the stand, Mrs. Barney admitted she had been living with Stephen, and said she had provided him with money. They quarreled, she said, over another woman. She was going to kill herself, she declared, when Stephen grappled with her and was accidentally shot in the stomach.

"It is conclusive evidence of her innocence," the lawyer thundered, "that her fingerprints were not found on the revolver. There is no evidence here on which you could be asked to hang a cat."

He told the jurors they must not be influenced by scandalous stories of Mrs. Barney's life. "We don't know her life and we are not considering it," he said. "It was not nice for her to have to admit that she had been living with this man, but you must not be unduly prejudiced by that."

DETAILED REPORT OF R. F. C. LOANS DEMANDED BY NORRIS

Resolution Introduced in Senate Supported by Dill and Couzens; Consideration Deferred.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 6.—Senator Norris (Rep.), Nebraska, today introduced a resolution in the Senate for a detailed report of all Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans. Consideration was deferred.

The resolution asks for "a complete and detailed list of all loans giving the name of the person or corporation, date of maturity, rate of interest and the nature of the security held as collateral."

Saying it is impossible for a member of Congress to obtain information concerning the corporation's loans, Senator Dill (Dem.), Washington, added, "It's about time we found out whether the organization is being fair to all institutions of the country or whether there are a few institutions that are receiving favors from the administration."

Senator Couzens (Rep.), Michigan, told the Senate he proposed to offer an amendment to the resolution that the Vice-President appoint a committee of five "as a continuing body as long as this Congress is in office for a continuing examination and inquiry and check into the activities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation."

HOOVER ASKS FOR $100,000 TO SEND BONUS ARMY HOME

President Requests Congressional Appropriation to Furnish Railroad Transportation.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 6.—President Hoover today asked Congress to appropriate $100,000 to furnish railroad transportation home for the bonus army.

The communication said the fund was to enable Frank T. Hines, the veterans' administrator, to furnish before next July 15 railroad transportation together with subsistence to honorably discharged World War veterans temporarily in the District of Columbia. The expenditures would constitute loans on the veterans' bonus certificates.

A Senate resolution for transportation and subsistence costs to return the marchers home was approved today by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Capital police turned down a bonus seekers' request to organize a campaign to solicit funds in the District of Columbia.

DANCER REPORTED KILLED IN PLUNGE AT NIAGARA FALLS

Michael Semenoff, Famous Russian Performer and Instructor, Had Threatened to End Life.

By the Associated Press. NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., July 6.—A man, believed to have been Michael Semenoff, a famous Russian dancer who had lived in Cleveland, O., is reported to have waded out in the Niagara River near Table Rock at 12:20 a. m. today and to have been carried over the Horseshoe Falls. Police said two persons witnessed the tragedy. The witnesses identified themselves as Harry A. Dooley of New York City and E. C. Crouch of Cuyahoga Falls, O.

They said the man climbed the railing near the brink of the Horseshoe, waded into the river and was caught by the current and swept over. Both witnesses said the man ignored calls to stop. On the river bank police found an overcoat with a Paris clothier's label and a walking stick. Semenoff registered yesterday at the Temperance House in Niagara Falls, N. Y. Relatives had asked police to be on the lookout for him.

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, July 6.—Michael Semenoff, famous Russian dancer, was being hunted by Cleveland police early today at the request of a friend at the same hour he was believed to have gone over Niagara Falls to his death. Michael Fokine of New York, for 25 years director of the Russian Imperial ballet, telegraphed police here to find Semenoff about the time of the tragedy.

"Find Semenoff who is contemplating suicide and hold him for me," Fokine's telegram said.

Semenoff was famous in Russia, where he was connected with the Moscow Art Theater and many other theaters. He came to the United States 10 years ago, spending the first five years in New York and then coming to Cleveland where he taught Russian dancing.

June 28 he gave a recital in his studio and after that, friends said, began giving away many of his treasured books and mementoes.

Griffin and Mattern Establish Speed Record and Are First Americans to Go Non-Stop Over Ocean to German Capital.

BEAT GATTY, POST MARK BY 3 HOURS

Delayed Near End by Bad Weather and as Result Only Small Crowd Is on Hand to Greet Them at Tempelhof.

By the Associated Press. BERLIN, July 6.—The American round-the-world flying team, Bennett Griffin and James Mattern, set their red, white and blue monoplane down in Berlin at 5:40 p. m. (10:40 a. m. St. Louis time) today, with two new records.

They brought their "Century of Progress" across the Atlantic in the amazingly fast time of 15 hours, 41 minutes, and are the first American trans-Atlantic flyers to reach this capital non-stop from North America.

They are trying to surpass the round-the-world record of eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes set in 1931 by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty.

Mattern and Griffin remained in Berlin three hours and 20 minutes, then took off for Moscow at 9 p. m. (2 p. m. St. Louis time). Post and Gatty spent 10 hours and 41 minutes sleeping in Berlin on their journey. At the take-off here Mattern and Griffin were 10 hours and 43 minutes ahead of Post and Gatty.

The distance from Berlin to Moscow is 991 miles. Post and Gatty covered it in 8 hours, 52 minutes.

Mattern Cables Wife. During the refueling of their ship the aviators sent various telegrams back to the United States. Mattern's message to his wife said: "Berlin looked great. Hope see you this week-end."

German pilots on the field were jubilant when the plane came down. Several of them ran out to where it rolled to a stop and thrust foaming scuttles of beer at the flyers. Their amazement the Americans waved it aside.

"What we want," said Griffin, "is a good long drink of water. That beer looks good, but it might not do us so well. We haven't had anything but oranges since we left New York."

Both looked fine behind their wide grins as the welcome became a small ovation.

Herman Koehl, who took the airplane "Bremer" across to Greenland a few years ago, was on hand to greet his friend, Mattern, whom he had met in Detroit.

Slept by Turns on Flight. When the crash was over Griffin and Mattern were taken over to the airport hotel where somebody gave them tooth brushes, soap and towels.

"Tired?" Mattern said. "Not a bit. We've got double controls and we stood regular watches. While I was working Griffin slept; when he took over, I curled up."

"It was 10 hours, 50 minutes on the dot after we left Harbor Grace that we sighted land. We kept on, and from there—I guess that was Ireland—we got to Berlin in 15 hours, 40 minutes flying time."

"We'd have got here sooner, but we missed the town and veered off to the north. Griffin spotted the name on a little railroad station. I think that was Seldin—and we turned around and came south again."

"For all we saw there might not have been any ocean at all. We were flying blind in fog and believe it or not, our altitude ran from 5 inches to 16,000 feet."

FAILURE OF RELIEF FUNDS BRINGS DIRE NEED IN ST. LOUIS

8000 Families Already Dropped by Agencies and 5000 More Will Be on July 15.

MANY FACING ACTUAL HUNGER

Visit to Few of Homes of Unemployed in City Shows Suffering From Lack of Food.

Hunger has entered thousands of St. Louis homes since Friday, when relief agencies were obliged to abandon 8000 families for want of funds, and today stands on the threshold of thousands more.

Citizens' Committee relief agencies, which have been caring for 25,000 families, are reducing that number to 12,000. On the first of this month 8000 families were dropped, and on the fifteenth 5000 more are to go.

There has been much discussion at the City Hall, of bond issues running up to $10,000,000, and of special taxes which would make hundreds of thousands of dollars available for relief appropriations. The debate buys no groceries, and the relief committee is curtailing its operations because it would need more than $1,000,000 to continue helping all Jan. 1.

Mayor Callahan after conferring with representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and leaders in the relief work, called another meeting for 11 o'clock Friday morning at which the situation will be discussed.

The Mayor said he would invite representatives of civic and business organizations to attend the meeting, which will be held in the Chamber of Commerce and leaders in the relief work, called another meeting for 11 o'clock Friday morning at which the situation will be discussed.

Those present at today's conference in the Mayor's office were Walter Weisenburger and Charles H. Morrill, representing the Chamber of Commerce; Asaiah Bush and Clinton May, representing the Jewish Federation; William L. Igoe, president of St. Vincent de Paul Society, and E. G. Steger, director of the Community Fund.

"The poor will feed the poor," relief workers have said at other times when there seemed to be no money in the relief program. But when the poor have not enough to feed the poor—what then?

Reporter Seeks Answer. A Post-Dispatch reporter and a relief worker set out yesterday to learn the answer direct from those who have been left to shift for themselves and from those who say soon be confronted with that necessity.

These knew nothing of the problems of raising relief funds. They knew only that somehow someone had supplied them and their children with food, and now they were given no food. They had no jobs. What would they do?

"Well, maybe the plant will open again," said the optimistic farm boy from Reynolds County, dancing the second youngest of five on his knee. His wife had a hand-kerchief to her eyes. The plant had been closed for nine months.

"Pa and ma can take us in for a while, I guess," said a young mother of two in another home. "They've still got a little of their insurance money." Her husband, a truck driver, is beating his way around the country looking for work.

Another mother, of seven, whose husband earns $40 a month, didn't know. She just cried and protested in broken English. They owe $100 to the corner grocery man, and he is not likely to extend further credit.

Strapping young farmer from Mississippi, who had ambitions to support his seven children by working in a brass foundry, figured they could get transportation to Arkansas. "My daddy farms down there and he had a good crop this spring. He could feed us, anyway."

Denies Making Love to Nurse

a couple of pounds of flour and a bit of lard. For supper the wife had planned to mix up some corn bread and have the tomatoes.

Savings All Gone. He had earned $42 a week when he worked, and after he lost his job his savings sustained the family for a while, then most of the furniture went, and after a year they were dependent upon charity. Now help is denied them, because others need it worse, and there is not enough to go around.

It was late in the afternoon when the visit was made to the ex-Mississippi farmer. The family was gathered around the dining table, and three of the girls were standing, because there were no chairs. "Lunch or supper?" asked the relief worker. "Both," he replied. "We've only got enough for two meals." On the table there was a bowl of boiled dried beans, three slices of salt pork and several pieces of bread.

This family, for the present, will continue to receive help, $7 a week for food, and rent for their three rooms, $11 a month, is to be paid. Enough to keep alive the father and mother and their seven children, the oldest a girl of 11.

The other family with seven children is being cut off because the father earns $40 a month, sweeping out offices at night at National Stockyards on the East Side, a five-mile hike from his home. For seven years he had been a molder in a plate glass factory, but the factory shut down two years ago. The mother was bending over a wash tub when the visitors arrived. The three-room upper flat was immaculately clean, and the worn clothing of the children spotted. The father was shining his shoes—a proud workman even at $40 a month.

Hopes to Get Job Back. The optimistic young farmer from Reynolds County had "shoved under ground" for four years in a Flat River lead mine. Standing all day in water finally affected his health and three years ago he brought his family to St. Louis. He worked at a paint factory and for two years up to last December as a mechanic in a power plant at Venice. Then the plant shut down.

"But I'm still on the pay roll," he said hopefully. "that is not on the pay roll, exactly, but they've got my name and address and I'll get my job back when they open up."

Shelter and $5 a week for food is still being given to this family, for the youngest of five children, a boy born several weeks ago, will need special care. He was a tiny baby, with feet and hands large in proportion to the rest of his body. The doctors said his mother had not been getting enough food to eat.

The mother of two lives in a shack built in the railroad yards in North St. Louis near the Mississippi River, a place constructed by her husband two years ago when he lost his job as a truck driver. They used to have a horse, and her husband picked up a few dollars a week at odd hauling jobs, but the horse died last spring because there was no feed for it. She has a few chickens and finds food for them by sweeping out grain cars at a nearby elevator.

Westminster Funeral for Manuel. By the Associated Press. LONDON, July 6.—The funeral of former King Manuel of Portugal, who died Saturday of a heart attack, will be held at Westminster Cathedral, Friday. Burial will be at Weybridge, where other members of the exiled royal family have been interred.

Two weeks ago this family had received $7 from one of the relief agencies for groceries. That was the last help given them. "I spent the last 25 cents this morning," the wife volunteered. "We had some tomatoes and bread for lunch. And for supper? We've got nothing for supper," the man said.

Secretly of the kitchen revealed that was almost literally true. There were still six small potatoes, eight dried onions, about a pint of milk—sour because there was no ice—a quart of corn meal,

CAUGHT IN HOLDUP TWO WEEKS AFTER TRIAL FOR MURDER

Guy McRoberts Captured by Policeman in Chase—Shoe Store Robbery Attempt Failed.

Guy McRoberts, acquitted of a murder charge two weeks ago at Clayton, was arrested today, soon after he had held up the proprietor of a shoe store at 4266 Manchester avenue.

The shoe man resisted, and McRoberts fled, empty handed, after beating him on the head with a revolver. As he ran out the back door and down an alley he was observed by Probationary Patrolman William O'Connor, who was in a pool room around the corner on Tower Grove avenue.

O'Connor took out in pursuit and, calling upon the fugitive to halt, fired two shots in the air. He was gaining ground and two blocks away was only a few feet behind when McRoberts wheeled and leveled his revolver at him.

O'Connor knocked the weapon from his hand. Other policemen, who had heard the shots, arrived and helped him subdue the prisoner.

When they inquired what the trouble was, the officers reported, McRoberts responded, "I just stuck up a shoe store." Later, at the Magnolia avenue police station, he told Capt. Dineen it was only a quarrel over the change he expected to receive in making a purchase.

George Steinmeyer, owner of the shoe store, identified McRoberts as the man who had held him up and said there had been no purchase. McRoberts had entered the store about 10 o'clock, Steinmeyer said, and left while he was waiting on other customers. He returned a few minutes later, after the customers had gone, the store owner said, and ordered Steinmeyer to lie on the floor in a rear room.

A struggle followed, and when another customer entered the store, Steinmeyer said, McRoberts ran out the back. "I was formerly a driver, killed Edward Unger last Oct. 9 in a Meramec River cottage. At his trial he pleaded self defense, and the jury acquitted him June 18. McRoberts testified that he shot Unger in the head as Unger was creeping upon him with an ice pick. In his confession McRoberts said Unger sought his life because he knew of several holdups in St. Louis in which Unger had taken part.

Probationary Patrolman O'Connor, who captured McRoberts today, has been a policeman for only eight months. He is attached to the Magnolia avenue district.

'AKRON' JOINS HUNT FOR BOAT Navy Dirigible Searching for Racing Craft Off Cape Hatteras. LAKEHURST, N. J., July 6.—The navy dirigible Akron, in a message to the Naval Air Station today, reported her position as 350 miles due east of Cape Hatteras. The Akron went aloft last night under orders to aid in the search for the missing yacht Curlew, unreported on a race to Bermuda. The message said nothing regarding the weather at sea or the progress of the search.

BODIES OF FAMOUS FLYER AND TWO AIDS FOUND IN FAR NORTH

A. P. Cruickshank and His Companions Had Been Missing for Week.

By the Associated Press. WINNIPEG, Man., July 6.—A famed Northland pilot, Andrew D. Cruickshank, and two mechanics have lost their lives in a venture to open up the radium ore fields of the Far North.

Canadian Airways has received word that the bodies of Cruickshank, Horace W. Torrie and Harry King—missing nearly a week—had been found near Lake Macdonald, 40 miles north of Fort Rae on the aerial trail to the rich Great Bear Lake area.

Their plane, obviously had crashed and buried its nose deep in a ridge after wandering aimlessly in poor visibility. It was thought the men had been dead for five days.

Cruickshank left Cameron Bay last Wednesday with a load of mining equipment for Fort Rae and had not been sighted since. W. R. May flew the route the next day and must have passed over the scene of the accident. He decided that Cruickshank must have been flying low to follow landmarks and struck the side of a hill.

The dead pilot was a war-time pilot, an air mail flyer, and a hero of the McAlpine party rescue in 1929. He was married and had two children. He was a native of Oxfordshire, England.

ENDS LIFE IN HOTEL ROOM
London B. Morris Had Been in Poor Health. With a bullet wound through the head and a pistol by his side, the body of London B. Morris, 72 years old, was found in a room at the Biltmore Hotel, 3633 Washington boulevard, this morning.

A note written on the back of an envelope requested that the body be cremated. Morris lived with his three sisters at 521 Westgate avenue, University City, having gone to the hotel yesterday. He formerly was a live stock dealer in East St. Louis, but had been unemployed for several years and had been in ill health, relatives stated. His wife lives with a married daughter in Detroit.

Frost Damages Wyoming Crops.
By the Associated Press. CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 6.—A killing frost is reported in Star River Valley, near Grover, Wyo. Growers said the 25-degree temperature damaged virtually all potato plants and other vegetables.

WORKERS' BUYING POWER CUT 23 PCT. IN 3 YEARS

National Industrial Conference Board Shows Effect of the Economic Depression on Wages in United States.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, July 6.—National Industrial Conference Board statistics show unemployment has caused aggregate earnings to fall off sharply, and the board computes that the purchasing power of the total pay envelope, after giving effect to reduction in employment, was 23.1 per cent less in May, 1932, than in September, 1929.

Purchasing power is measured by the decline in prices of the things the wage earner buys. The decline was 22.7 per cent from September, 1929, to May, 1932. Thus purchasing power of the individual dollar was 22.7 per cent greater, or 124.8 cents as compared to 100 cents in 1929, but as the number of dollars received was much less, the wage earner's total real purchasing power was considerably smaller.

In September, 1929, taken as the month the business slump set in, the industrial wage earner received on the average of $25.59 a week. In May, 1932, he received only $17.17—40.6 per cent less.

The rate of payment has fallen less than the decline of prices, so that the wage earner working as many hours in May, 1932, as in September, 1929, is better off. Very few are working as many hours, the decline being 30.5 per cent. The wage earner in May received 51 cents an hour on the average, 13.9 per cent less than in September, 1929.

Save for a few seasonal gains, the board says, unemployment was aggravated in May, 1932, by further layoffs. The number of those employed in the manufacturing industries now stands at about 62.2 per cent of the 1929 level and about the same as compared with 1929, a decline in May was 4 per cent from April.

STEADY WITHDRAWALS CLOSE FIRST NATIONAL, AURORA, ILL.
Second of Five Banks in That City, Deposits $2,500,000, Forced to Suspend Business. By the Associated Press. AURORA, Ill., July 6.—The First National Bank in Aurora, failed to open today. The directors voted last night to close the bank, saying it was necessary because of steady withdrawals.

The bank was the largest in Kane County and the second of Aurora's five banks to close. Its deposits June 30 were $2,500,000. Last January residents of Aurora pledged themselves not to withdraw more than 10 per cent of their savings accounts in any bank during a single month, but commercial withdrawals have been heavy.

Pastor Found Shot Dead on Beach.
By the Associated Press. REVERE, Mass., July 6.—The Rev. Ralph F. Blanning of Bangor, Me., was found dead on the beach here today, a pistol bullet in his head. He had been pastor of the Unitarian independent congregation at Bangor until a few months ago, when he suffered a nervous collapse. His death was regarded by police as suicide.

EIGHT KILLED BY LIGHTNING
VIENNA, July 6.—Lightning killed eight persons in Austria and Jugoslavia Monday and yesterday. Near Grmued, Austria, Prof. Ferdinand Dienst died when lightning struck a radio antenna while he was listening to a broadcast of the weather report. A shopkeeper was killed in Pristina, Jugoslavia, and in a field near Belgrade five peasants were struck. A mother was struck and killed in a nearby village, but an infant in her lap was unhurt.

SUIT OVER TAXES WITHDRAWN
Action to Enjoin Cook County From Selling Real Estate. By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, July 6.—A bill to enjoin Cook County from selling 130,000 pieces of real estate for 1930 taxes, has been dismissed on motion of the 28,000 complaining property owners. Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg disclosed today he had approved withdrawal of the petition. He had previously informed counsel for the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers that he would refuse the injunction.

The suit charged that personal property worth $15,000,000,000 had escaped taxation and the 1930 levy was thirder discriminatory. The petition, bearing 28,000 signatures, stood three feet high and weighed 15 pounds.

John D. Rockefeller 93 on Friday.
TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 6.—John D. Rockefeller Sr. will celebrate his ninety-third birthday on Friday at his Peconic Hills estate here. The day will be one of regular routine, with the exception of a family dinner and a birthday cake.

WITNESS AND LAWYER GET IN FIGHT IN COURTROOM
Defendant in East St. Louis Suit Resents Being Asked If He Was Drunk. Blows were exchanged by Dr. Adrian J. DeHaan, a physician of Edgemont Station, an East St. Louis suburb, and Harold G. Baker, former United States District Attorney in East St. Louis, at trial of a $1100 suit on a note in City Judge Borders' court in East St. Louis today.

Baker, counsel for a real estate company suing Dr. DeHaan, was seeking to identify a $100 check and asked the physician if he had not been drunk when the check was given. Dr. DeHaan leaped off the stand and began the encounter. He and Baker were separated and Dr. DeHaan apologized to the Court. The case was decided in favor of the real estate company, the firm of McLean & Galvin.

PUBLIC SERVICE STOCK SELLS FOR 50 CENTS A SHARE
Below $1 for First Time—Top of $24 in 1929 on Local Exchange. Common stock of the St. Louis Public Service Co. sold on the St. Louis Stock Exchange today at 50 cents a share for a block of 200 shares. A decline of 40 cents, bringing it under $1 for the first time.

This stock sold as high as $24 a share in 1929, $10 in 1930, $4 in 1931 and $1.25 earlier this year. There has been little activity in it in recent months.

URGES CITY PLAN BE ADOPTED HERE AS ECONOMY STEP

Commission, Which Acts in Advisory Capacity Would Make Work More Comprehensive.

PERMANENT NEEDS
VS. PASSING DESIRES

Charter Amendment or State Legislation Suggested—Early Attempts Cited in Report.

Inestimable economy for the city and for property owners would be accomplished by official adoption of a comprehensive city plan, the annual report of the City Plan Commission declares.

While the commission is officially established, it acts in an advisory capacity. It has prepared the major street plan, which has been followed by the city in a general way, and transit, recreation and other plans, and has been the agency of the zoning code.

Expense of official adoption would not be appreciable, the report points out, but authority for this purpose should be provided through charter amendment or State legislation. The report continues:

"Unless there is a comprehensive city plan based upon past growth, existing conditions and a reasonable estimate of future needs, any decision with respect to the width and location of a proposed street widening, the size and location of a particular park or the zoning of any specific neighborhood is bound to be guess work. More often, without a comprehensive plan, it isn't even good guess work, but rather a decision based upon the desires and initiation of the most aggressive individual or group of individuals (who can bring the largest and loudest-voiced group to the council chamber).

Based on Permanent Needs.
"Even the official or council that is best intentioned and unbiased in its decisions and actions, lacks sufficient information for adequate decisions if there be no comprehensive city plan. By such a statement it is not intended to imply that a city plan is a panacea for all municipal ills. It is merely the instrumentality which brings about the opportunity for decisions based upon permanent needs of the municipality as distinguished from those which might be momentarily desirable.

"City planning is becoming a definite science. While admittedly still in its infancy, it nevertheless offers a much more scientific means of arriving at proper decisions with respect to numerous classes of municipal improvements than is otherwise possible. One of the most important advantages of an officially adopted city plan is the fact that the great majority of private development soon adjusts itself easily and conveniently thereto.
This is amply illustrated in many cities that have adopted comprehensive elements of a plan such as zoning ordinances. The official city plan of Cincinnati has found ready acceptance in most of that city's new growth.

"At St. Louis, it was difficult, if not impossible, to consummate a street opening or widening previous to 1916. There was lack of agreement as to the nature or character of projects—one would be objected to because of cost or because one neighborhood objected to another neighborhood securing such projects, and this is not to mention injunctions and referendums initiated for a great variety of reasons.

A Solution Found.
"Following the completion of the major street plan, each neighborhood found the solution of its own problems, busied itself in securing its own improvements while the larger civic organizations supported the projects of community-wide importance. While there have been objections, they have been disposed of on their merits and the city has been able to complete a large number of projects serving all sections of the city, with an improvement in traffic circulation facilities unsurpassed in American cities.

"The Federal Government often finds a most appropriate solution for the aggravated problem of Federal building locations where a municipality is earnestly engaged in the development of an officially adopted civic center plan. Toledo, Kenosha and St. Louis are building civic centers from official plans of several years' standing and the Federal Government has welcomed the opportunity to locate its structure in such a satisfactory position.

"The preparation and adoption of an official comprehensive city plan is a laborious and difficult task. It will prevent untold, unwise and unnecessary expenditures.
A city may engage in no more practicable or economical activity if the work is carefully and wisely undertaken. The so-called standard city planning law prepared by the Division of Building and Housing of the Department of Commerce sets up a logical procedure for the preparation, adoption and enforcement of comprehensive city plans.
Now that standards and practices have become so well established every municipality should secure legislative authority of this character and prepare and adopt a comprehensive city plan."

Some Early Attempts.
Citing the virtue of planning ahead for the city's development, the report recalls the following early attempts, some successful:
The voters, in 1864, defeated a scheme for a park of about 250 acres, in the area bounded by Compton, Taylor and Laclede avenues and Olive street, at a price of less than $100 per acre.
An ordinance was passed in 1867 for widening Grand boulevard to 120 feet for its entire length but officials dropped this in the belief it was too costly. The cost now would be prohibitive, but was comparatively little then.
Voters defeated a movement to extend Lafayette Park west from Missouri avenue to California avenue in 1848.

Forest Park was purchased in 1875 for $619 an acre, in spite of opposition.

In 1883 someone obtained an injunction which for a time prevented the city from raising the old Lucas Market, which occupied the middle of Twelfth boulevard, between Market and St. Charles streets.
The series of Kingshighway and related boulevards has been completely established, as proposed originally by a special commission and pushed by the City Plan Commission.

To Discuss Long-Time Plan of City Improvements.

Suggestions for long-time planning of public improvements will be discussed at a meeting next

Tuesday to be attended by city officials, citizens interested in city planning and D. H. Sawyer, director of the Federal Employment Stabilization Board at Washington.
The meeting was called by Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks at the written request of Sawyer, who stated, in a letter, that the Federal Government and the city of Washington had adopted long-time improvement plans.

LUKE LEA'S SENTENCE STAYED
Order Granted Pending New Trial
Plea at Asheville.

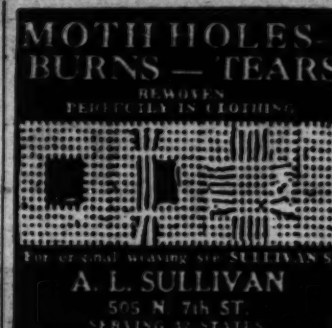

By the Associated Press.
ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 6.—
Judge P. A. McElroy of Superior Court last night signed a temporary restraining order staying execution of sentences of Wallace B.
Davis, Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher, and Luke Lea Jr., convicted of conspiring to defraud the Central Bank and Trust Co. here of more than $1,000,000.

Robert R. Williams, counsel for Davis, former president of the defunct bank, said the stay was granted when he appealed for an opportunity to present to Superior Court a plea for a new trial on the grounds of newly discovered evidence and irregularities at the first trial. Judge McElroy ordered the petition be presented at the next term of Superior Court here, which convenes July 25.

Wife Gets Farmer Out Of Jail in Fight for Land

He Agrees to Obey Court Order Giving 40 Acres to Two Lawyers Under Foreclosure Suit.

A wife's plea for her husband effected the release from the Edwardsville jail last night of A. B. Rockwell, 72-year-old Madison County farmer, sent there a few hours previously for contempt of court.

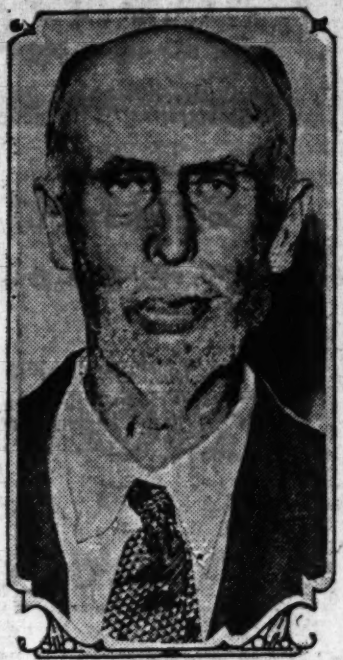

Her powers of persuasion were sufficient, too, to induce him to sign a statement agreeing to surrender peacefully 40 acres of his farm obtained through foreclosure by two Edwardsville lawyers. Circuit Judge Brown had sent him to jail for contempt because he refused to give up the land, and his statement was incorporated in the court order for his release.

In inducing her husband to surrender his "east 40," Mrs. Rockwell shattered his faith in his legal lore, acquired through home study, although she failed to lessen a militant distrust of lawyers.

Explains His Stand. Yesterday shortly before his wife appeared, he said at the jail he had told her that morning "not to keep supper for me, because I figured I might end up in jail."

"Sure enough, Judge Brown sent me over here. Contempt of court, he called it. Well, maybe so. If not giving up my property is contempt of court I reckon I'm guilty."

Tall, neatly dressed, deliberate of speech, Rockwell told how he borrowed $2000 about 13 years ago from the now defunct Citizens' State Bank of Alhambra, giving a mortgage on half of his farm, two miles from the town, which he inherited from his father and on which he was born.

A. B. ROCKWELL.

Subsequently, Jesse L. Simpson and William G. Burroughs, attorneys for the bank in liquidating its affairs, bought the property, after the bank had filed a foreclosure suit in liquidation. A master-in-chancery issued a decree confirming the debt and a certificate of indebtedness on March 4, 1920, and at the end of 15 months the attorneys acquired it and bought the property.

Has 300 Law Books. Despite the decision of the court, upholding the original decree and directing Rockwell to surrender the tract, he contends that the redemption period does not expire until Nov. 10.

"Besides, now I ask you," Rockwell continued with a chuckle that set occupants of other cells laughing, "how can a busted bank have a lawyer? Even if it had, the bank's lawyers had no business buying anything in at a foreclosure sale."

"Oh, I know all about those decrees and rulings and what not. And the lawyers they come out and eat my wife's fried chicken and talk things over. Mighty nice boys. I've got nothing personal against them. Judge Brown, he's a nice fellow, too. They all go by their law."

"But I've got my law—right out of the books. Yes, sir, I've got 300 law books at home I bought in Chicago and I've put in a lot of time reading them. Mighty interesting reading, too."

"My father always was a great hand for book-learning. The school across the road from my East 40 is named after him. I guess I take after him. I studied at McKendree College, too. No, I didn't get any degree. I don't need a degree to know that what's mine is mine."

Exhibiting three blue blotters bearing excerpts from his law books written in an angular old-fashioned hand, Rockwell conceded that Judge Brown had overruled his points, but added:

"But books or no books, possession's nine points of the law. And I haven't seen those lawyers doing any farming yet on my East 40."

How He Saved His Wheat. "Oh, they've been around. A whole crew of 'em came out one day last year when I was getting in my wheat. They had a Constable and trucks and I don't know what all. Said they wanted a third of my crop—rent for their property, they said."

"I just sat on a wheat sack, sort of playing with my Daddy's old mule-loader. Those lawyers got mighty nervous. Stood first on one foot and then on another."

"If you fellows aim to load that wheat, load it up," I told them. But they didn't do any loading. Kept looking at my gun. One of them asked me what I was going to do with it. I told him I hadn't decided. Then he told the other fellows he was late for a conference. I think he called it, and the whole batch of them got in their trucks and skinned back to town."

"Shucks, I wouldn't have shot them. It wasn't that I wanted the wheat—it wasn't worth anything—but I wasn't going to let them get it. My chickens got fat on it."

SON OF A. T. & T. EXECUTIVE KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT. BROOKINGS, S. D., July 6.—Edwin Carter, 22 years old, son of E. F. Carter, vice-president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., died of a broken neck after his automobile crashed through a fence near Aurora after falling to make a turn in the road.

Walter Sherman Gifford, 14-year-old son of W. S. Gifford, president of the same company, suffered a crushed left arm.

The two youths were on the way from New York to Alaska on a pleasure trip. Carter had just been graduated from college.

Gifford, just learning to drive, was at the wheel when the accident occurred. He apparently failed to notice the turn in the road, and the car plunged into a ditch, jumped a fence and plowed about 75 feet down a field before stopping. It did not overturn. Carter was thrown from the automobile and his head struck the fence.

WOMAN ATHLETE GETS DIVORCE

Mrs. James Gillan McLaren Granted Decree at Reno.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., July 6.—Mrs. Ethel Catherwood McLaren of Canada, called the most beautiful woman athlete of the 1928 Olympic games, has been granted a divorce from James Gillan McLaren of Toronto. The action was filed last October, but Mrs. McLaren declined to proceed then for fear her Nevada residence would jeopardize her chances of representing Canada in the 1932 Olympic games. After the decree was granted yesterday on charges of non-support, she refused to discuss her Olympic plans beyond saying she was in training.

Miss Catherwood married McLaren at York, Canada, in a secret ceremony Nov. 25, 1929. She announced in San Francisco last December she would marry Byron Mitchell, San Francisco gymnasium instructor, when her marriage to McLaren was ended.

WISCONSIN BODY UNRAVELS TANGLE OF PHONE COSTS

Public Service Commission Strikes at Holding Company Evil of Interlocking Charges.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. MADISON, Wis., July 6.—Steps toward untangling cost of long-distance telephone business from local exchange business were taken by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission in its order for a temporary reduction of 12½ per cent in local exchange rates, effective July 31.

The commission's order strikes at a holding company evil—the intermingling of accounts in such a way that it is all but impossible to separate operating expenses of local services from general expenses of a huge system—and undertakes to give local telephone subscribers the benefits to which the commission finds they are entitled.

Some other practices of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the holding company of the nationally centralized telephone business, which have been complained of by Wisconsin investigators, were not passed upon at this time by the commission. These include the $1,000,000 side-tracked reserve for depreciation of depreciation charged against telephone instruments which it is alleged is not properly accounted for.

Seeks to Learn Fair Value. These points are to be considered in connection with the continued investigation and hearing of the telephone case. The commission will go fully into the question of fair value of the local exchange properties of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. as a basis for reasonable rates.

The remarkable thing about the decision is that it gives immediate effect to lower rates the commission is convinced are justified by the progress thus far made in an incomplete investigation. The commission holds it should not withhold this reduction because to do so would make the telephone users pay excessive rates, which they could not later recover.

The rate reduction is expected to save subscribers of the 102 local Bell company exchanges in Wisconsin $1,550,000 a year, based on the present volume of business.

Segregation of accounts by the commission resulted in assigning to the long-distance lines $311,000 of operating expense which the Bell system had charged against the Wisconsin company's local exchange business. The commission also found that the long-distance lines should bear a greater part of the system's interest and dividend charges than had been assigned to them.

Dividend Listed at 8, Not 5, Pct. The company's requirements for interest and dividends were listed, figuring the common stock dividend at 6 per cent instead of the 8 per cent which has been paid for many years, and the resulting figure, $2,971,000, was determined as the total revenue required.

The book cost of fixed capital was analyzed to determine what proportion of the property was used for exchange business and the percentage was applied to the $2,971,000 total dividend and interest requirements to ascertain what part of the burden should be borne by the exchange system. The exchange system's share was fixed at $1,957,000. This was deducted from the $2,971,000 of adjusted operating income, leaving $1,014,000 as the maximum possible reduction in revenues. The revenues were reduced $1,550,000 by the rate cut, leaving a safety margin of about $300,000.

Systems Kept Separate. The order plainly stated that the exchange and toll systems "must stand separately 'on their own feet' just as though operated by distinct corporations."

"The general schedule of rates for local service seems to be a burden to make up for shortage of revenues on the toll system, it would mean that subscribers having little or no use for toll service would be continually required to pay for a service which they would not use," said the commission. "The element of discrimination would be serious."

With this statement, the commission proceeded to shift $211,000 of operating expense from the exchange system to the toll system, on the ground that it properly belonged there. This was part of the $1,480,000 reduction in allowable exchange operating expense.

The commission determined on the basis of evidence in the investigation, that 9.5 per cent of exchange property was devoted to toll use. This finding was the result of studies made by the commission's engineers. This percentage was applied to the apportionment of dividend and interest requirements and resulted in the final determination that the exchange system should bear only $1,957,000 of the burden, leaving $1,014,000 to be borne by the toll system.

Effect of Order. The toll income for 1931 was $549,000, on the company's statement. The $311,000 of operating expense shifted from the exchange to the toll service reduced the operating income to $238,000. This is $768,000 short of what the commission found to be the toll system's share of the revenues required to meet all interest and preferred stock dividends and pay 6 per cent on common stock.

No increase was ordered in toll rates. The commission said, "If the existing rates, in the judgment of the company, are inadequate, it has a remedy before this commission."

The commission made no effort at this time to fix a fair value for the company's investment or to determine a reasonable return on such investment. It held that the value of the service to the consumer had decreased greatly and remarked that although the courts in recent years had paid more attention to the cost of service to the utility, "it must not be forgotten that it is still the law that rates, regardless of their effect upon the financial condition of the company, cannot exceed what the services are reasonably worth."

The commission found also that the purchasing power of the company's dividend dollar, due to economic conditions, had increased greatly so that, in effect, the 8 per cent dividend of 1929 became 12 per cent in 1931; while testimony given before the commission showed that incomes of corporations and individuals that subscribed to the company's service had been reduced very sharply.

In addition to its finding on the record that the company's rates were unfair and unreasonable, the commission found, in view of the economic conditions prevailing in the State, that an emergency existed "to the injury of the business and interests of the people" as contemplated by a statute empowering the commission to take emergency action. It called attention to the fact that this emergency statute had been invoked by the utilities in the 1918-1920 period of rising prices and said that if it could not be invoked now in behalf of the consumer it was distinctly discriminatory.

Commenting on the "reasonable return" question, the commission said that the Wisconsin Telephone Co. had very small risk in comparison to other businesses, operated as a monopoly without competition.

SHIFT FROM WILSON IN HIS HOME COUNTY

Democratic Chairman Riley Comes Out for Dearmont for Governor.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, July 6. — A break in the hold of Francis M. Wilson on his home county party organization developed today with an announcement by Terrence Riley, chairman of the Platte County Democratic Committee and a member of the Democratic State Committee, that he was supporting State Senator Russell L. Dearmont against Wilson for the nomination for Governor.

Riley's switch to Dearmont was made public through the Dearmont headquarters in Jefferson City in a statement pointing to it as evidence of the correctness of their claims during the past few weeks that there was a decided swing to Dearmont throughout the State.

Riley gave as his reason that Dearmont had been active in governmental and party affairs, that Wilson had been inactive and that the party needed a "young, active leader and campaigner."

While neither Riley nor the Dearmont headquarters asserted that Wilson would fall to carry his own county, the loss of the Platte County chairman to the Wilson organization was considered significant by Democratic politicians generally.

In his statement, Riley said: "What the Democratic party in Missouri needs, and has needed for some time, is an honest, active, young, straight-from-the-shoulder leader and campaigner. No one in the party more nearly meets my ideal in this line than Dearmont."

His work in the Legislature, as chairman of the executive committee and other important Democratic committees, while others who seek the office of Governor have been idle and enjoying life in luxury, would be sufficient reason to make him the nominee.

"Wilson has done nothing in this county except vote since I have been connected with the county committee. He has not made one speech in this county for anyone."

"The only reason given here in Platte County for voting for Wilson is that he is 'our county man.' I may be taking the minority side in this county, so far as votes are concerned on election day, but if everyone voted as his heart and conscience dictated, Dearmont would carry the county by a big majority."

In the 1928 primary, when Wilson had the support of the entire party organization in his county, he received 2369 of the 3200 votes cast for Governor.

NATIONAL YOUTH CONVENTION

400 Young Persons From Churches of U. S. and Canada Attend Sessions.

The eleventh national Evangelical Youth convention opened last night at Alhambra Grotto, 2226 South Grand boulevard, with about 400 young men and women from churches in the United States and Canada in attendance. The convention will end Friday night.

Study classes are held from 10:45 a. m. to 11:45 a. m. and from 3:20 to 4:20 p. m. daily. At the opening session, Dr. P. R. Hayward, Chicago, director of young people's work of the International Council of Religious Education, spoke on "Youth at the Crossroads."

In addition to the study sessions the convention has its general sessions, business meetings and departmental work.

AGREEMENT ON ILLINOIS MINE PAY EXPECTED BY TOMORROW

Operators Understood to Have Increased Recent Offer of $4 a Day.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 6. — An agreement on a compromise wage scale between Illinois coal operators and the United Mine Workers was imminent today. While neither John H. Walker, district president of the union, nor W. J. Jenkins, acting president of the Coal Operators' Association, would discuss negotiations, it was reliably learned accord might be reached later today or tomorrow.

The tentative scale, it was understood, would be considerably higher than the $4 a day recently offered by the operators. The old scale was $6.10 a day.

JUDGE'S ERROR IN SENTENCE

Orders Workhouse Term When Law Does Not Provide It.

After Police Judge Blaine had sentenced Elmer Marrah, 4405 Nebraska avenue, to 10 days in the Workhouse yesterday and had fined him $50 for failing to make a boulevard stop, he recalled that the maximum fine for the offense was $25 and that no Workhouse sentence was provided. He then changed Marrah's fine to $25 and omitted the sentence.

TWO BROTHERS LASHED FOR STEALING IN OHIO

They Take 20 Strokes as Crowd
Looks on at Millerburg.

By the Associated Press.
MILLERSBURG, O., July 6. — William Wynn, 48 years old, and his brother, Jesse, 51, lashed to the side of the Holmes County courthouse, received 20 strokes on the back yesterday in what was believed to be the first use of the whipping post in Ohio in 50 years.

Three hundred persons gathered in a little park in the center of town and watched in silence. Sheriff John Stevens did the whipping. Arraigned before Judge R. B. Putnam on a charge of stealing a refrigerator and selling it for $2, the brothers were offered their choice of sentences—20 days in jail at hard labor on a bread and water diet or 20 lashes with a whip. They chose the whipping. The Sheriff twice broke a light buggy whip on William, then picked up a blacksnake whip to complete the job. Judge Putnam had ordered the punishment "not to be unduly rough or inhuman but at the same time no pink tea." The Sheriff obviously did not exert himself. He had expressed himself as unwilling to carry out the sentence. The prisoners were allowed to keep their backs covered. Neither victim apparently suffered much and neither was marked. Judge Putnam was not present to see the sentence carried out. Later, Judge Putnam issued a statement in which he declared his court was prepared to "stretch all laws until they crack" to stamp out lawlessness in Holmes County. "Holmes County is being visited with the crime wave, prevalent throughout the country, out of all proportion with its population. This Court is determined to do all in its power to restore this community and eradicate crime. To accomplish this purpose it is prepared to emulate the principles and policies of Thomas Jefferson and stretch all laws until they crack."

Millions take this pleasant, certain means of avoiding HALITOSIS (bad breath)

ANYONE who suffers from halitosis (bad breath) can seldom make new friends or keep old ones. That is a pretty broad statement but it is based on research covering a great many thousands of human beings. Halitosis is indeed the unforgivable social fault.

Everybody suffers

How do you know that at this very minute your breath is not disagreeable? Remember that approximately six out of ten people have halitosis, occasionally or chronically. Do you know why? Because halitosis is most frequently caused by tiny bits of fermenting food, skipped by the tooth brush.

Why risk offending others? Why not keep your breath always beyond reproach? Why not be the fastidious person that your friends expect you to be?

The sure way

Don't expect cheap, ordinary, evil-tasting mouthwashes to end halitosis. Many have no deodorant effect whatever.

For quick, certain, pleasant results use Listerine. For half a century physicians have prescribed this safe antiseptic because of its marked germicidal and deodorant power. Listerine cleanses, refreshes, and invigorates the mouth—and its taste is pleasant. No metallic flavor or harsh after-effect.

Listerine's double action

Listerine gets rid of halitosis more quickly because it possesses double action: 1. Because it is antiseptic Listerine immediately halts food fermenting, the source of 90% of mouth odors. 2. It instantly overcomes the odors themselves.

Actual tests show that Listerine immediately overcomes odors that ordinary mouthwashes fail to conceal in 12 hours. Keep Listerine handy in home and office. Put it in your week-end handbag. Carry it when you travel. It is an investment in popularity. Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Mo.

SAN DIEGO CITY MANAGER
DUSTED FOR INCOMPETENCE
Official Who Served Two Months Will Be Tried Publicly Before Council.

By the Associated Press.
SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 6.—After two months in office, Horace H. Eselstyn, San Diego's first city manager, was ousted by a four-to-three vote of the City Council yesterday, and A. F. Goeddel, former city purchasing agent, was named acting city manager.

Charged with incompetence, Eselstyn will be tried on July 20 publicly before the Council.

LODGER CONFESSES KILLING MAN AND WIFE

Attacked With Hammer, He Says, Accused of Undue Attention to Woman.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, July 6.—Irvin S. Limer, 45-year-old unemployed accountant, was held today on a charge of murdering Edwin P. Clarke, 52, retired New Jersey Telephone Co. officer, and his wife, Mrs. Kendra Clarke, 55.

Police said Limer confessed he killed the pair with a pistol when they attacked him with a hammer and butcher knife after Clarke had accused him of undue attentions to Mrs. Clarke. Limer denied forcing his attentions on Mrs. Clarke.

Limer was reported to have confessed last night after more than 20 hours of questioning by detectives, who had held him since the finding of the bodies of the pair in their home Monday night.

Limer had been a friend of the Clarks for years, and when Mrs.

Limer left Los Angeles recently to go to a sick son in Manila, P. I., the Clarks had invited Limer to come to live with them. Police said Limer admitted Clarke accused him Monday of being attentive to Mrs. Clarke.

"It seems we have a triangle here," Clarke was quoted by Limer as saying in the latter's reported confession. An argument followed which ended in the pair attacking him, Limer told police.

When first taken into custody, Limer said he was watering the lawn when he heard shots fired. He said he saw a man run from the house and expressed belief robbers had committed the crime.

Clarke, a former resident of East Orange, N. J., came to Los Angeles two years ago. Limer, a native of Louisville, Ky., has been a resident of Los Angeles for 20 years.

MURRAY'S CANDIDATES TRAIL IN OKLAHOMA

U. S. Senator Thomas Wins Place in Run-Off Democratic Primary.

By the Associated Press.
OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., July 6.—Incomplete returns today from Oklahoma's primary showed leads in most major races for candidates who made their campaigns without endorsement by Gov. William H. Murray.

Mrs. Mabel Bassett, State commissioner of charities, held a lead for the Democratic nomination for Congressmen-at-large. The returns indicated that Murray's choice, Claude Weaver—ranked fourth.

Another Murray favorite, Nell Gardner, trailed in the race for Seventh District Congressman. The leader was J. V. McClintic, a Democrat, who has represented the district since 1914.

The hardest fight any Congressional incumbent encountered was that put up by Alex Johnston, attorney and oil man, against W. W. Hastings, favored by Gov. Murray, in the Second District. They were running neck and neck.

J. C. (Jack) Walton, who was impeached and removed as Governor in 1923, during the Ku Klux Klan fight, appeared assured of a position in a run-off primary July 26 for the Democratic nomination for Corporation Commissioner.

E. W. Marland, oil man who made and lost a fortune, appeared assured of the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Eighth District.

Oklahoma's senior United States Senator, Elmer Thomas, faced a run-off contest in his campaign for renomination on the Democratic ticket. While Thomas polled a vote exceeding that of R. M. McCool and Gomer Smith, combined, ballots cast for four other candidates apparently will prevent him from obtaining a majority. Thomas was a leader in the fight for full payment of the soldiers' bonus and a tariff on oil.

Wirt Franklin, independent oil man known for his leadership of the oil tariff movement, was far in front for the Republican nomination for Senator. Oklahoma has not elected a Republican Senator since it sent W. B. Pine, oil man, to Washington in 1924.

ANDERSON, MO., WITHOUT BANK
Depository Closes Voluntarily After Gradual Withdrawals.

ANDERSON, Mo., July 6.—Closing of the Farmers' Bank of Anderson voluntarily Saturday by its board of directors, left Anderson without a bank, the State bank here having closed about two years ago.

W. Ed Roark, president of the bank, said it was inspected a few days ago by the State Finance Department and found all right insofar as its books and records were concerned. Roark said the board felt that the bank should be closed because of badly depleted reserves due to gradual withdrawals since Jan. 1. The bank, organized in 1919, had total resources of $162,031, capital and surplus of $25,000 and deposits of $133,799. O. W. Tandy was cashier.

TRADING WITHOUT USING CASH
Three-Way Deal in North Carolina Arranged.

By the Associated Press.
MARION, N. C., July 6.—A three-way barter enabled an insurance man, a farmer and a livestock raiser, to fill their needs without exchange of cash.

W. G. Biggerstaff, the farmer, wanted an insurance policy and wanted to sell his corn. T. L. Klutz, an agent, wished to sell a policy so he could pay G. H. Washburn $15 which he owed. Washburn needed the money to buy feed for his livestock. So Klutz sold Biggerstaff the policy and accepted an I. O. U. which he turned over to Washburn. Washburn took the note to Biggerstaff, traded it for 30 bushels of corn and marked it paid.

ST. CHARLES COUNCIL FOR CITY LIGHT BONDS

Report Advocating $300,000 Issue for Municipal Plant Approved.

The St. Charles City Council last night approved by a vote of six to two a report of a citizens' committee recommending a $300,000 bond issue for a municipal electric power system.

The committee of citizens, headed by Dr. L. E. Belding, has been studying reports of engineers, who have made a survey of the electrical needs of the community with the view of supplying the demand for residential and industrial purposes, as well as to light the streets and supply power for the electrified waterworks plant. A special meeting of the council probably will be called shortly to discuss the placing of the bond issue proposal before the citizens for a vote.

St. Charles now receives its electric power from the Union Electric Light and Power Co. The city's electric bill for street lighting and waterworks purposes amounts to $24,000 a year. Proponents of the proposed municipal system hold that it would pay for itself in five years, and then would earn revenue for the city at the rate of $75,000 a year or better. The Union Electric Co.'s franchise expires in August, 1933, when it is hoped that a municipal system, if established, will be ready for operation.

Dissenting votes were cast last night by Councilmen Louis Ebeling and Harry Chrismer, who originally supported the establishment of a municipal system.

POLICEMAN SHOT 23 YEARS AGO IN WARFARE WITH GANG DIES

John Hutton, 57, on Retirement During Last Year for Disability.

John Hutton, retired police sergeant, who was seriously wounded in police warfare with the Bottoms Gang 23 years ago, died last night at his home, 4391 Calvin avenue, after a long illness. He was 57 years old.

Hutton was shot in the abdomen when he entered the West End Physical Culture Club, a Sunday "fit" club and gang rendezvous, in an old church at Twenty-second street and Washington avenue, on a Sunday night in 1909. Cornelius Sullivan, known as "Connie the Sock," was sent to the penitentiary for seven years on the testimony of an eight-year-old boy that Sullivan shot Hutton after another man seized the policeman's right arm. Police, under Chief Creacy, waged a relentless fight on the Bottoms Gang, which was broken up.

Hutton, who weighed more than 200 pounds at the time he was shot, never fully recovered from his wound, but performed beat duty until 1925, when he was assigned as desk sergeant at Newstead District. He was retired on pension a year ago for disability.

CANDIDATE ACCUSED OF BITING MAN WHO VOTED AGAINST HIM

Township Commissioner in St. Clair County Indicted by the Grand Jury.

Highway Commissioner Frank Reinhardt of Centerville Township, St. Clair County, surrendered at Belleville yesterday on a grand jury indictment charging assault with a deadly weapon. He was released on $1000 bond.

The indictment grew out of an encounter last Friday between Reinhardt and Bernard Hutchings, who has supported an opponent of Reinhardt in an election contest over the latter's office. In the fight, it is alleged, Reinhardt threw a rock at Hutchings and then bit him on the forehead, causing a wound which necessitated seven stitches.

An election contest between Reinhardt and H. C. Gentry, who received 1488 votes apiece in an election April 5, is pending in the Illinois Supreme Court. Gentry had won in a drawing after the tie vote but in a recount, Reinhardt was declared the winner. The present suit alleges a miscount of the recount.

SUPREME COURT SENDS ORDER TO HANG NEGRO MURDERER

Similar Mandate for A. B. Meadows, Sentenced to Death July 15, Is Expected.

The mandate of the State Supreme Court, ordering that Emerson White, Negro convicted of murder, be executed in city jail July 15, was received today by the office of the Circuit Clerk for Criminal Causes. The death warrant will be made out by the clerk's office this week, and sent to the sheriff, who will be in charge of the execution.

A similar mandate in the case of Andrew B. Meadows, night watchman under sentence of death for his part in the fatal Buckingham Annex Hotel fire, is awaited by the clerk's office. His execution is expected to take place on the same day, July 15.

White killed an elderly Negro, Pinckney Hollis, with a hatchet in Hollis' room at 2641 Pine street, on New Year's day, 1930. The body was found two days later, and White's arrest followed the finding of Hollis' clothing and other belongings in his possession. White was convicted in March, 1930, and his case was in the Supreme Court until it affirmed the death sentence recently.

BOY KILLED IN FALL OF 800 FEET ON PEAK

Plunges Down Icy Slope of Mt. Hood While on Trip to Summit.

By the Associated Press. PORTLAND, Ore., July 5.—Glen Cullickson of Portland died yesterday from injuries he suffered when he fell 800 feet down the icy slope of Mount Hood.

News of his death was brought to Government Camp last night by Gordon Nugent of Chicago and Payne Aben of Petersburg, Ill., companions of Cullickson on a trip to the summit.

At the time of the accident Nugent and Aben climbed down to the side of the fallen lad. Finding him unconscious, Aben hurried to Government Camp for help.

500 PERSONS MADE HOMELESS IN WASHINGTON, KAN., TORNADO

Rehabilitation Under Way in Town Where Three Were Killed Monday.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Kan., July 5.—Citizens continued today to provide relief for more than 500 persons made homeless by a tornado which struck this town Monday afternoon and caused three deaths. The rebuilding of wrecked residences already is in progress. Mayor Edgar Bennett estimated the damage at $500,000.

C. F. Rowland and Miss Jessie Clarke, St. Louis, American Red Cross representatives, are expected here soon to aid in reconstruction. The wind pulled a layer of dirt from a potato patch, leaving the tubers uncovered and ready to be gathered.

CAULFIELD LISTS STATE NEEDS

KANSAS CITY, July 5.—Gov. Henry S. Caulfield said today he is compiling a list of needed reforms in Missouri's governmental operations.

It is his plan, the Governor said, to suggest certain changes to the Legislature in his farewell message. "Missouri's greatest need," the Governor declared, "is to reform its Government through the abolition of numerous boards, that not only are expensive but well can be dispensed with so far as their functions are concerned. Through necessity the next Legislature will have to find ways of reducing overhead, as the revenues simply will not go around."

Railroads Say: Let the Fittest Survive
The evolution of transportation, from crude beginnings to the present time, has ever been governed by the law of the survival of the fittest. Under the operation of this law, railroads came to be the dominant mode of transport in this country. Now other forms of transport are engaged in a struggle with the railroads for commercial traffic. It is right and proper that the fittest should survive. The railroads welcome a fair test of their fitness for providing the transport services which the country needs and must have. They ask only that it be a fair test, conducted by private agencies equally regulated and alike free from subsidies, each standing on its own bottom and fully paying its own way. Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

PEGGY TELLS ALL by Timmins
NO, NO, I DON'T WANT YOU TO HOLD ME
PEGGY, I'M ASHAMED... I DON'T KNOW WHY SHE IS SO NAUGHTY TODAY. IT MUST BE THE HEAT
LATER
BUT, DADDY, I DIDN'T WANT TO SIT ON HIS KNEE. TOO MUCH "B.O."
YOU SEE, EVEN A CHILD NOTICES "B.O." HE'S A GOOD NEIGHBOR AND A FINE FELLOW BUT I WISH SOMEBODY WOULD TELL HIM ABOUT LIFEBOUY
NEXT DAY
WHY, PEGGY, WHAT ARE YOU WASHING YOUR DOLL WITH LIFEBOUY FOR?
'CAUSE I DON'T WANT HER TO HAVE THAT NAUGHTY "B.O."
WAS PEGGY HINTING THE OTHER DAY WHEN SHE MENTIONED "B.O." ANYWAY LIFEBOUY'S A GRAND SOAP. SUCH LATHER... I'M ALWAYS GOING TO USE IT!
NO "B.O." NOW—and what a difference!
SO PEGGY'S OVER THERE AGAIN!
YES, HE'S A BIG FAVORITE NOW WITH EVERYBODY. THAT IS THE GIRL, HE'S BEEN IN LOVE WITH SO LONG. SHE'S JUST PROMISED TO MARRY HIM.
"Perspiry" weather... more "B.O." danger
BE CAREFUL! Hot days like these when we're perspiring freely, we never know the moment "B.O." (body odor) may offend. Don't take chances—bathe regularly with Lifebuoy. Its beautiful, creamy lather perfumes and disinfects pores—expels "B.O." Cleanses hands, by removing germs from hands. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent, that vanishes as you rinse, tells you Lifebuoy protects.
Aids complexion
Ask the millions of Lifebuoy users. They'll tell you how quickly its pure, bland lather freshens dull complexions to healthy radiance. See for yourself. Adopt Lifebuoy today. A PRODUCT OF LEVER BROTHERS CO.

MAN BEATEN WHEN ROBBER FINDS HE HAS ONLY CHANGE

Robert Morris, Richmond Heights, in Auto With Young Woman When Attacked in Forest Park.

Robert Morris, 2149 Princeton drive, Richmond Heights, was knocked unconscious last night by an armed robber who held him up near the Art Museum in Forest Park. Morris was in an automobile with a young woman when the robber drove up, ordered him out of the machine and then asked how much money he had.

Morris said he had some change. The robber exclaimed: "I ought to shoot you!" and beat him on the head with the pistol. Morris' companion summoned aid in taking him to St. Mary's Hospital, where he was treated. He was not robbed. When Abe Lerner, an officer of the Progress Loan Co., 4629 Newberry terrace, was held up by two armed men at his residence at that address last night, his children began to cry and told the robbers not to shoot their father. The robbers fled to an automobile without robbing him.

Roy Farber, attendant at a gasoline station at Washington boulevard and Walton avenue, was robbed of $100 at 7 a. m. today by a man who kept his hand in his pocket as if he had a revolver.

Admits Three Robberies.
A man who said he was Jack De Lacasa, a former convict, of Maplewood confessed three recent robberies, the police reported, and was identified by the victims yesterday. He was arrested early Sunday morning after one victim, manager of a Kroger grocery store at 2735 Gravois avenue, gave police the license number of an automobile in which a robber fled from the store Saturday evening.

Police found it was that of a rented machine and later, at 3540 Washington boulevard, arrested De Lacasa as he drove in with the automobile. He said he had been released from the Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary June 11, after serving a sentence for violation of the Dyer act, and that he had committed the robberies to get money to entertain young women. He admitted a holdup at a saloon at 4634 Olive street last Friday night, where he obtained $5, another 15 minutes later at a drug store at 4655 Delmar boulevard, where he stole $15, and the Kroger store robbery, where he took $40. Three warrants charging robbery were issued against him yesterday.

$75 Orchestra Horn Recovered.
The theft and recovery of a $75 orchestra horn was reported to police yesterday by Frederick E. Bailey, a musician of 40 North Kingshighway. Bailey said he left the horn in a locker at the Ambassador Theater in March and found it gone when he returned there in June. From a friend he learned the instrument was being displayed in a music store on Pine street. The proprietor of the store, who gave the horn to Bailey, told him it had been bought for $10 from a man who said he was selling it for a sick friend who needed money.

RICHMOND HEIGHTS TO ELECT COMMISSION IN 60 DAYS

Drops Aldermanic Form of Government, 1159 to 153; Non-Partisan Ticket to Be Named. Elections to choose a commission to govern Richmond Heights will be held within the next 60 days as the result of a special election yesterday changing the form of government.

By a vote of 1159 to 153 the people of the suburb abandoned the Mayor and Council government of a fourth-class city. The commission will operate under third-class city laws. It will consist of a Mayor and two Commissioners. The election must be within 60 days and a primary to choose nominees must be held two weeks before that. There will be two non-partisan tickets in the primary, one for Mayor and one for Commissioners. The two candidates for Mayor and the four for Commissioners receiving the highest votes will be the nominees. Mayor J. J. Flanagan, who was elected for the first time last April and who joined the Richmond Heights Civic League in proposing the change in government, will run to succeed himself under the new plan.

At present there are 10 Aldermen, whose offices will automatically be vacated. The City Collector and City Marshal have been elective officers, but hereafter they will be appointive. For several years there has been a controversy over the collectorship.

Richmond Heights has a population of about 9100. There was no organized opposition to the proposal adopted yesterday. Other suburban towns having commission government are Webster Groves, Kirkwood and Maplewood. Mayor Flanagan said no increase in the town tax rate was anticipated.

Embroider Gets 1 to 10 Years.

By the Associated Press.
ROCKFORD, Ill., July 6.—Truman Johnson, former president of the Security First Mortgage Co., was sentenced to one to ten years in prison today for embezzlement of $20,000. He pleaded guilty recently. Evans Anderson, secretary of the company, who was convicted of embezzlement, is free under bond pending his appeal.

OLYMPIC FUND NEARING GOAL; 85 ATHLETES ON U. S. TRACK TEAM

LIMITS SET FOR TEAMS IN EACH SPORT; TOTAL OF 340 FOR AMERICA

NEW YORK, July 6.—The American Olympic Committee, which has been raising money to send a full representation to the games at Los Angeles, has announced it is now only $45,000 from its goal.

The campaign for funds lagged badly in its early stages but has been picking up momentum. President Avery Brundage said, and although he declined to give the exact amount raised said the goal was in sight. All expenses of the winter sports team have been paid. The sum of $350,000 originally was set as the minimum required but economies were effected in various sports and the total was cut considerably.

The committee, at a meeting last night, set limits on teams in every sport so the total number of American contestants will be 340. This is below the number originally planned and some 60 under the delegation sent to Amsterdam in 1928, but it nevertheless gives the United States good representation in every sport.

Following are the quotas assigned for the various teams:

Track and field, 85; boxing, 16; wrestling, 14; field hockey, 17; revolver shooting, 3; fencing, 18 men and 3 women; cycling, 8; gymnastics, 22; tennis, 16; swimming, 32; weight lifting, 10; equestrian, 9; yachting, 14; rifle shooting, 25; modern pentathlon, 3; lacrosse, 25 (no expenses to be paid).

PEARCE TRAINING HARD FOR DEFENSE OF HIS OLYMPIC ROWING TITLE

By the Associated Press.

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 6.—Bobby Pearce, Australia's champion single sculler, is leaving nothing unturned in his preparations to defend his title in the rowing events of the 1932 Olympics.

His father, Harry Pearce, former professional single sculler champion, arrived recently to take charge of his son's training. Bobby works out twice a day with Maj. Goodsell, also a former professional champion, who is training for his match race with Ted Phelps, present "pro" title holder from England, over the Olympic course Labor day.

Goodsell and Pearce take two long workouts each day, in the morning and evening, after a round of golf in the early morning.

Society Pitcher Routed in First Start as Yankee

CHARLES DEVENS.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, July 6.—Twelve hits for seven runs in five innings drove Charles Devens, New York Yankee pitcher, making his debut, from the mound here yesterday in an exhibition game with the Baltimore Orioles of the International League. Baltimore won the game, 9 to 2. Devens is a social registerite from Harvard U.

Babe Ruth connected for a double in the eighth, his longest hit of the afternoon. Melton went the route for Baltimore, allowing eight hits.

NEW RECORD IS SET IN $12,000 TROTTER RACE

CLEVELAND, July 6.—A new record—the fastest four heats ever trotted by three-year-olds—was on the Grand Circuit racing books today.

Three horses contributed to the record, which was set yesterday in the $12,500 Stallion Stake at North Randall track. They were Brevere, Hollywood Dennis and the Marchioness.

Breve was winner of the opening heat in 2:03 3/5. In the second heat, Will Crozier drove Hollywood Dennis to win in 2:02, a new state record, and the fastest trotting mile of the season.

The Marchioness, with Brittenfield driving, won the third heat in 2:02 2/5 and won the stake by leading the fourth heat in 2:04.

Cold Cash, also driven by Brittenfield, captured the free-for-all race in three straight heats, 2:01, 2:01 and 2:02 2/5. The second heat was the fastest mile this season.

Jane Willet was a straight-heat winner in the 13 class three-year-old trot. Pat Junior took every heat of the 16 trot, and Loree Prince won the 1 1/4-mile handicap trotting dash.

Viviano Meets Linginfelter In Amateur Feature Tonight

With a record of 50 victories in 59 fights as a flyweight, Tony Viviano, former Mississippi Valley 112-pound champion, invades the bantamweight ranks tonight when he meets Morgan Linginfelter, district 118-pound monarch, in one of the feature battles on the Mississippi Valley Amateur Association boxing card at the Battery A. The first match starts at 8:30 o'clock.

In his last bout Viviano won over his bitter rival, Harold "Spider" Kaderbeck, ace of the South Broadway A. C. Charles Gelardi, senior champion, and Cole Merritt, junior king, are also included among his victims. Linginfelter, who is coached by Jackie Callahan, has not lost a decision in nearly two years.

Twins Charley and Raymond Wozniak, are scheduled to take part in middleweight matches. Raymond who stopped a Y. M. H. A. product, Shapiro, in his last match, meets Eddie Edson of the National A. C. The other Wozniak boy is entered in the preliminaries.

In two welterweight matches, George Biehl, of the Business Men's gymnasium, meets Joe Cooley, and Chris Paschoff, Eddie Goldberg's scrappy scrapper from Granite City, takes on Jasper Casamano. Biehl, who is handled by Dan O'Keefe, fought Joe Huff, senior title holder, to a standstill on the last Battery card, while Cooley took Morris Cooper into camp in his last battle.

Elmer Savage, another Business Men's Gymnasium fighter, and Elmer Howell, Mound City A. C. flyweight, meet in the fifth scrap. The card has attracted 55 fighters.

The Passing Show.

MAX BAER, the sulkist heavyweight, from California's Golden Gate Proved King Levinsky's master. The Kingfish quailed a battle fought. But by the Butcher Boy was caught. And met up with disaster.

As per the code of John McGraw Bill Dickey broke Carl Reynolds' jaw. Through being overheard; Which shows the boys are keeping step. And to a fine display of "pep" The customers were treated.

To keep it from the "ho-hum" stage Some players think they should engage In baffle pugilistic. To lift the pastime from the rut The right-arm jab and uppercut Is pleasing and artistic.

Jim Farley of the State Comish. And well-known New York politician, who said he hit the roof and the roof hit him, was in the crowd. And now we hear there is a plan For drafting the "Forgotten Man" To serve in the position.

A False Front.

Bill Dickey, by way of adding a little color to an otherwise drab and uninteresting Fourth of July, bustled Carl Reynolds on the jaw. Now it looks as though Dickey will have to get someone to front for him.

Although the ball slipped out of his hands and hit the bat and the bat hit the umpire, Dickey Dean will tell the world that he is not slipping.

One for the Book.

Babe Herman hit one Monday that the ump said hit the roof and was shooed home by the official. Anyway, the ball after hitting the roof instead of going on over Grand boulevard, as is customary, defied the law of gravity and bounced back into the field. Another case of the uncertainties of baseball.

In the future the boxing promoters will issue the Annie Oakleys but the list will be gone over by the commission, revised and promoters told to whom they may give passes. Well, anyway the promoters will have the privilege of deciding on the list.

There was a noticeable falling off in the display of fireworks. Fourth of July night. Indicating that the people didn't have money to burn as usual.

Gov. Roosevelt in waiving the official notification ceremonies set an example for ball players who refuse to accept an informal announcement of the umpire that they have been elected for trip to the showers.

Down Under.

Young (W. L.) Striking got off on the right foot in Australia when he took Ambrose Palmer for a technical knockout in the tenth round.

When some victories you need, Wry your luck across the seas, If at home you don't succeed, Go to the Antipodes.

Not that W. L. hasn't had a fair share of success both financially and artistically, but just when he reaches the top somebody knocks him off.

Although W. L. was battered from pillar to post, not to mention under and yon by Max Schmeling, he might have won with the right kind of a referee.

SLOW TIMES AT BERKELEY GAMES

RESULT OF PLOT, COACH DECLARES

Electrical Timing Device Will Not Be Used at Olympics

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, July 6.—AND-MANIPULATED stop watches will be official timing devices for the Olympic Games of 1932 under present plans of the International Federation, William M. Henry, sports technical director of the games, said yesterday.

The electrical timing device used at Berkeley, Cal., last week end in the I. C. A. A. A. meet, however, will be on exhibition here during the international contests but apparently only for comparative purposes, with the possibility of use in the 1936 games.

Some newspaper sport writers commented on the "inefficiency" of the timing. The most bitter blast came from R. L. "Dink" Templeton, track coach of Stanford University and a staff writer for the Call-Bulletin.

I do not think it was a wise move on the part of the East to enter into a conspiracy to attempt to show up the West's timers," Templeton wrote.

Templeton based his protest on the time of 9.8 seconds credited to Frank Wykoff of the University of Southern California, in winning the final of the 100-yard dash. Wykoff is an applicant for a new world's record of 9.4 and is joint holder of a recognized mark of 9.5.

"Wykoff ran as good a race as he ever ran in his life and was given 9.9," Templeton said. "There was hardly a man entered in the high hurdles who couldn't run 15 seconds or better yet Gene Records of Harvard, who won the championship for the third straight time, getting a beautiful start and running in perfect form, was given a bare 15 flat."

The best of the times were in comparison and as a consequence the results of this great meet were sent all over the world to prove that the athletes belong to the I. C. Four-A have become decadent. Comparing these times with those made at the national collegiate at Chicago, one would get the idea that not a single Western athlete would have a chance in that meet.

The Easterners are openly gloating over the fact our timers have been shown up. I believe they came out here with the idea of showing up our timers firmly fixed in their minds."

In Wykoff's case, other observers noted that Ralph Proctor, only Western timer working in the meet, caught the Southern California runner in 9.8 for the 100.

OTTAWA, Ont., July 6.—Coming from behind on the last nine holes with a par on the 33rd, Lex Robson of the Kingston Golf Club yesterday won the Canadian Professional Golfers Association championship playoff from Andy Kay of Toronto, the defending champion. Robson turned in a score of 70 for the 18 holes, while Kay carded 73.

Eddie Flynn Is Winner in Bout At Kansas City

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 6.—Led by Eddie Flynn, the National A. A. U. welterweight champion, a trio of New Orleans amateurs defeated Missouri Valley boxers by technical knockouts here last night while another Southerner lost a shade decision to a Kansas City youth.

Flynn was awarded a victory over Benny Allen, Hutchinson (Kan.) middleweight, in the second round. The national champion came to the ring too heavy to make the welterweight referee limit and was matched with Allen instead of Mal Ward of Hutchinson, the Kansas welterweight champion, whom he was originally scheduled to meet.

Jack Holland, New Orleans heavyweight, gained a technical knockout when the referee stopped his match with Ralph White, Kansas City, in the first round.

Dennis Flynn of New Orleans, national collegiate champion middleweight, opened a cut on Tony Manser's face and was awarded a victory over the Kansas City boxer in the second round.

Jimmie Ferris of New Orleans was shaded by Jerry Jenkins, Kansas City welterweight.

Blocking the Plate.

ONE player has a broken jaw, another is under indefinite suspension, two clubs have lost the services of a star player for many weeks, and the flag chances of two first-division teams have been impaired, all because a catcher blocked the plate and then lost his temper.

When Bill Dickey of the Yankees smashed Reynolds of Washington who blocked the plate, he performed one of those inspiring feats so dear to the heart of Jawns who thinks fights on the field show the earnestness of the player.

The unexpected consequences of Dickey's punch may give even the truculent Muggsy pause in supporting his viewpoint.

Many fans have placed the entire blame on Dickey. "What right has he to block the base line? If the runner hits him, that's Dickey's lookout. He's the one that should have been hurt and taken the punishment, too," writes one fan.

"I don't understand," says another, "why they continue to let a catcher block off the plate when he has not yet got possession of the ball. It's done every day of the world in violation of the rules."

Rule Not Observed.

THE fact of the matter is that the rule is not strictly observed. The other day Grace of Pittsburgh knocked Wilson ten feet in a collision at home plate. Jimmy took his medicine.

"You've got to block the runner if possible," he observed, "or you might as well look for another job. No club wants a catcher who won't take that chance."

Dickey was therefore following the usual precedent in all respects except that he wasn't able to "take it" and say nothing. He exploded. And the blow off of temper hurt everyone concerned.

And while the incident has focused attention on blocking the plate, you can rest assured that the practice will NOT be discontinued as long as major league catchers are fighting for pennants. Only the teams that are not interested decline to take chances on a catcher who can turn their backs on teams that didn't have a catcher with "insides."

The watchword of the backstop is "don't lose your nerve or your temper."

Recognition at Last!

THE world has had its fun with the boxing "experts." Today, however, they come into their own—whatever that is. The New York Boxing Commission has taken note of them to a certain extent. It has ruled that, hereafter, only "experts" shall be allowed to broadcast; and among those listed as experts are newspaper critics.

"That," observed one of the local critics, "is a splendid announcement, 'vindicating' as the commission at last recognizes us as experts."

"That's about as close as a boxing commission ever comes," was the comforting comeback.

It's Not So Easy.

BROADCASTING a fight is a difficult. Happenings are lightning fast. Many of the motions of the fighters are meaningless, as far as results go; other actions, momentous in effect, may appear trivial or pass unnoticed.

The attempt to reflect all of the action clearly and convey the proper value to each lead or counter, to reflect their weight and damaging power and present a truthful picture of what is going on is almost beyond extemporaneous announcement.

But what broadcasters might do helpfully is to refrain from getting excited and oversteering the acts and facts.

As a matter of fact it was a tough fight, with the challenger running away and the pursuer unable to catch up effectively only at rare intervals. Except for the presence of that mouse under Sharkey's eye, the men might as well have been to a dance, for all the hurt suffered.

This Is a Fact.

HAGUE was illustrated some years ago when broadcasting was more of a novelty. Two newspaper men were telling their invisible audiences about the show, via the mike.

One saw it all Walker. The other, round after round, reported that Walker was being out-boxed by a wide margin. After the final session, the last man—

GEORGETOWN AGE BEATS OLYMPIC HURDLE RECORD IN TRYOUT RACE

By the Associated Press.

BERKELEY, Cal., July 6.—The 400-meter hurdle race was bettered here yesterday by athletes qualified to compete in final trials for the 1932 United States Olympic team.

Victor Burke of Georgetown University, national champion in the event, skinned the barriers in 54.2 seconds to clip two-tenths of a second off the games' mark of 54.4 seconds. "Red" Record of Harvard finished second, and qualified for the final in 54.5 seconds.

Jimmy Kelley of N. Y. U. was the second heat of the hurdle race, finishing in 54.4 seconds, with Alexander Reidel, Columbia, and Harold Fates, Columbia, finishing in that order. All three qualified.

Dan Dean, Pennsylvania, won the 500-meter run after a close hunt with John Kearns, Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Dean won by five yards in 15 minutes 11.2 seconds. Kearns was timed in 15 minutes 11.4 seconds. William Bonthron, Princeton, third, was qualified when he announced he was through with competition for the season. Albert Martin, Cornell, fourth, qualified with Dean and Kearns.

George Baker, N. Y. U., finished the 10,000 meters in 32 minutes 41.2 seconds, with John Ryan, Massachusetts, a split second behind. Ryan qualified.

Joseph McCluskey, Fordham, won the 100-meter steeplechase in 9 minutes 29.5 seconds, followed by Frank Nordell, N. Y. U. Both qualified.

The hop, step and jump was won by Michael Andrusky of Pennsylvania, with a leap of 45 feet 10 inches, to qualify.

Bell Back From Intercollegiate; Hurt Leg in Trial

Richard Bell, St. Louis star, is back in St. Louis today after a trip to the West Coast where he went to participate in the Intercollegiate Track and Field championships at Berkeley, Cal., Saturday.

Bell re-injured his right leg in the first heat of the 100-yard dash in getting away at the start, and was forced to withdraw from competition. The injury, described as a pulled muscle, was first sustained by Bell during the indoor season while he was competing for Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Bell will refrain from all track work for the remainder of the year, and by next season he expects that the leg will again be sound.

In practice trials on the campus Bell was clocked for the centimeter in 9.8, and was picked by most of the Western experts to finish as good as third. Frank Wykoff was in 9.9.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Persistent strength in foreign Government bonds finally brought in a turn in domestic stocks today, as shorts, who had been skeptical of the move in foreign, decided it might be wise to cover. Shares recovered an early setback, and closed firmly with numerous gains of a point or so in leaders. The turnover aggregated 7,570,000 shares.

Houses with London and Amsterdam connections reported buying of German Government bonds in this market, as well as of some domestic securities, and private caravans from London were optimistic over developments at Lausanne, although Paris reports were distinctly less hopeful.

American Telephone, after selling off 1 1/2 points to a new low of 7 1/2 in the early trading, recovered to close with a net gain of nearly a point. American Tobacco B. Case and Auburn pushed up about two points, and issues closing a point or so higher included U. S. Steel, American Can, Liggett & Myers B. Allied Chemical and Westinghouse. Columbian Carbon rose a point despite reduction of the quarterly dividend to 50 cents from 75. Oils were notably firm. Standard of California and Royal Dutch rising a point, while others in the oil group were numerous. Some of the mining stocks also worked a little higher. International Shoe dropped six, and recovered but one. Strength of leading commodities also tended to bolster the share of cotton shot off 1 1/2 to 1 1/4, and wheat closed 1 1/2 to 2 cents a bushel higher. Corn was up 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents.

Foreign currencies were inclined to rally, after their setback yesterday. Sterling cables ruled nearly a cent higher at 24 1/2, the Dutch guilder, however, was off a shade.

Slow to Draw Conclusions.

Wall Street has been slow in drawing conclusions from the advance in German and other foreign bonds in view of the false starts in those directions in the past.

With business suffering the paralyzing effects of mid-summer, financial quarters looked either to Lausanne or Washington, with opinions that might help security prices, and with indications of a temporary deadlock at the national capital over the relief measure, it was felt that developments from that quarter, such as adjournment of Congress, would be delayed.

The oil shares reflected the weekly statistics showing a further cut in crude production. In the mining group buying of the gold issues was easy to understand, in view of the improved position of yellow metal producers, what, with the increased value of the monetary metal in relation to commodities. But firmness of copper was less easy to understand.

The weekly consolidated condition statement of reserve member banks in 32 leading cities showed a decrease of $55,000,000 in outstanding credit bringing it down to within $42,000,000 of the low of the depression. There were increases in the New York and St. Louis districts, but more than offset by decreases in Chicago and elsewhere. Loans on securities were off, in the aggregate, $10,000,000, but shrinkage of all other, or commercial loans, was very slight, this item declining $1,000,000.

"Iron Age" weekly review of the steel industry was fully as adverse as had been expected, but indicated that there might be a little improvement next week, as some plants resume after the mid-year shutdowns. It placed ingot production at 12 per cent of capacity, probably the lowest on record, and estimated June output of 1,000,000 tons at the lowest since December, 1929.

NEW YORK, July 6.—Electric power production in the United States last week rose to 1,456,961,166 kilowatts from 1,449,541,000 in the previous week. Output in the corresponding week last year was 1,218,000 kilowatts. Decrease in the week to the July 4 holiday, no percentage of change from 1931 was computed by the National Electric Light Association, which compiles the figures.

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE

July 6.—Johnson, Stephens, Shankle sold lower today on the local board. A little rown shoe also sold lower. Wagner Electric was unchanged. Southwestern Bell preferred was up.

A 200-share lot of St. Louis Public Service common sold on basis of 50 cents a share, compared with $1 a share brought for 100 shares on Feb. 27. This is the first time that the stock has sold under one dollar.

Coincident with decline at New York the bid price and International Shoe was lowered to 26 1/2 with 37 1/2 asked.

WEEK'S OIL OUTPUT

NEW YORK, July 6.—Daily average oil output for the week ended July 5, 1932, was 1,010,000 barrels, compared with 1,000,000 barrels for the week ended June 26, 1932. The increase was due to a rise in output from the Gulf of Mexico and the Persian Gulf. The output from the Gulf of Mexico was 1,000,000 barrels, compared with 990,000 barrels for the week ended June 26, 1932. The output from the Persian Gulf was 10,000 barrels, compared with 10,000 barrels for the week ended June 26, 1932.

Makes No Mention of Man Who Beat Him in Chicago in Announcement of His Decision.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 6.—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Democratic nominee for President in 1928, announced today that he would "support the Democratic party."

In a formal statement Smith said that he would have nothing to do with any independent political party as he considered such a party impractical.

"For that reason," he said, "I support the Democratic party."

He made no mention by name of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who had been his opponent in the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

He said he had received thousands of telegrams and letters, containing suggestions, from all parts of the country.

"Most of the suggestions," his statement said, "urge the organization of an independent political party. These come from people dissatisfied with the conventions of both parties. I say it is not practical in our country to start a third party at this time as it would simply register a negative vote, which would accomplish nothing for the people in their hour of need."

Dissatisfied With G. O. P.
"We are living in a system of two major political parties. A party out of power should constitute the necessary check and audit upon the party in power."

"The question before us today for decision is, 'Shall the record of the last 12 years of Republican administration be approved at the polls in November?'"

"As far as I am concerned, I am wholly dissatisfied with that record and shall do nothing to lend it maintenance. I shall therefore support the Democratic party."

"Upon the urgent insistence of many patriotic supporters," said the Smith statement, "I entered the contest for the Democratic nomination for the purpose of fighting for a declaration of principles in the interest of the whole country as well as the Democratic party."

"The principles which I advocate have in part been adopted, notably the declaration favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act."

Questioned after he had issued his statement, Smith said there was absolutely no significance to the fact that he did not mention Gov.
Roosevelt by name. He said he naturally could not support the opponent without supporting the central idea of the platform and everything connected with the party.

He declined to say whether he intended to take the stump for Roosevelt, but did deny reports that he was planning to go abroad during the campaign. He also declared that he had any intention of becoming a candidate for a fifth term as Governor. There was a report yesterday that Tammany was looking with favor on such a possibility.

Roosevelt Gets Pledges of Republican Support.
By the Associated Press.
ALBANY, N. Y., July 6.—Gov.
Roosevelt thinks his campaign for the Presidency has already won many Republican votes. Many of these votes he considers his because of his speech of acceptance.
He supports his belief with a series of messages to hundreds of Republican leaders in all parts of the country, pledging support.

The Governor's staff here is well pleased with the first move in the national campaign, the flight to Chicago and the speech before the convention.

For the moment Roosevelt is busy with matters of State Government and answering the messages which have been flowing in since the nomination.

Allied Powers Count on Getting Only $1,000,000,000 More From Germany on Reparations Account

Berlin, However, Insists Not More Than Half That Can Be Paid—Original Figure of $64,000,000,000 Abandoned.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 6.—War reparations, first capitalized at $64, 000,000,000, today are admittedly worth not more than another $1, 000,000,000 to the former Allies, and Germany insists they are not worth half that.

Although mentioned in the Ver-
logne conference of the allied Powers in June, 1920, to name tentatively the amount that Germany must pay.

But a previously appointed Reparations Committee vetoed the suggested sum of $64,000,000,000 and pared it down to $21,500,000,000 to be paid in cash, bonds and exports.
This total was agreed upon.

Neutral financiers predicted a default within a year, and in August, 1922, Germany asked for a moratorium. The Allies disagreed on what should be done, and out-of the ensuing deadlock came the Dawes Committee. This committee decided in 1924 not to name a final aggregate payment, nor to say how long Germany must pay.
Its plan eased off reparations, and scaled them up to a standard annual payment of $550,000,000 in five years.

But the question of final payment could not be delayed long, so the Young Commission was appointed in 1928 to say how much Germany should pay.

The Young plan took another $8,000,000,000 off the total reparations, leaving $25,500,000,000 spread over 50 years, and settling all accounts by 1938.

The world economic crisis brought the Hoover moratorium postponing all inter-governmental debt payments for one year ending June 30 of this year.

Then came the Lausanne conference. France and Great Britain have advanced a proposal to bond reparations at $1,000,000,000. First Germany objected, and now Italy insists on cancellation.

Complicating this is the dispute over how much Germany has paid.
Because of payments in commodities, the amount is in dispute.
France asserting that the Allies have received only $5,000,000,000, Germany says it handed over more than $16,000,000,000.

Add to this the claim of the United States last year that only $1,600,000,000 had been paid on total allied war debts of more than $11,000,000,000, and there are the factors for the greatest financial problem of its kind in history.

Democratic organization, which has been unfriendly to the Governor—it stood by Tammany to the end in voting for Smith at Chicago—will publicly proclaim its support in what the leaders have announced will be a huge demonstration of the powerful city machine.

Then the Governor will busy himself here until the week-end, when he will go to Hyde Park and then to New York. His first major political move since returning from Chicago may take place Sunday in New York. Silence has greeted questions whether the Governor would see former Governor Smith that day as the first step in the Roosevelt policy for harmony in the campaign.

Has Many Confidantes.
Conferences with advisers touching on water power, judicial reform and the economic situation in rural districts had been planned for the day by the Governor.

At a luncheon chat with Prof.
Raymond Moley of Columbia University, Roosevelt proposed learning the progress of a broad study of the State's entire judicial system as conducted by a special commission to which the Columbia man was named.

Henry Morgenthau Jr., State Commissioner of Conservation, an-old friend of the Governor and publisher of a farm periodical, was to talk with the executive, later, giving him his views on the status of the nation's farmers.

The recent developments in negotiations between the United States and Canada on development of the international section of the St. Lawrence River were to be explained to Roosevelt by two members of the New York State power authority, Frank P. Walsh and Delos M. Cogswell.

The Governor disclosed today he had slipped out, incognito, last night and attended a fireworks show in a park near the mansion.
Among the pyrotechnic displays was a huge fiery picture of the Democratic presidential nominee.

Telegrams and cablegrams congratulating to Gov. Roosevelt received today included messages sent by Max Schmeling, former world heavyweight boxing champion; Bernard M. Baruch, the financier; Vincent Astor; Adolph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times; and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Roosevelt visited Schmeling at his training camp near Kingston before he lost his title in the fight with Jack Sharkey.

Louis M. Floyd, Akron, O., wired that his first son, born about the time Roosevelt was nominated, had been named "Franklin Roosevelt."

From abroad also came congratulatory cables from Senator Claude Swanson of Virginia, who is at the Geneva disarmament conference, and Brand Whitlock at Cannes, France. Whitlock was the wartime Ambassador to Belgium.

Uncle Joe Page of Jerseyville, Ill., expressed his sentiment as follows: "Congratulations. Adolph the donkey saved Ballou and the hosts of Bala and they now have him to save the common people of the world."

ARMS CONFERENCE TO DELAY ACTION ON HOOVER PLAN

Will Adjourn for Summer
After Issuing Statement That Proposals Require Much Study.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, July 6.—Plans are under way at the disarmament conference to praise, but pigeonhole, President Hoover's proposals for a one-third reduction of the world's armament the conference is prepared to adjourn until next fall.

The conference is scheduled to issue a declaration before it adjourns praising the President's suggestions and setting forth the points in them on which the various delegations are in approximate agreement.

The delegations that have not yet expressed themselves on the plan will have a chance to do so at a session of the general commission of the conference to be held tomorrow. Last night the conference Bureau authorized Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, to start drafting the general declaration with which the work of the parley will be ended for the summer.

The declaration will say that some of the phases of the plan require considerable time for study by the Powers concerned.

The procedure, proposed by Simon, was approved by Ambassador Hugh Gibson of the United States and Joseph Paul-Boncour of France.

Maxim Litvinov, Soviet Russian Foreign Minister, and Ambassador Nadolny of Germany expressed disapproval with the procedure, declaring they could find no points on which the conference really was agreed.

TURKEY FORMALLY INVITED TO JOIN LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Assembly Gives Frank B. Kellogg
Ovation When He Attends Session as Spectator.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, July 6.—The League of Nations assembly at a morning session today formally invited Turkey to join the League and arranged for a meeting later to receive the Turkish reply and to welcome her into the organization.

Frank B. Kellogg, former United States Secretary of State, was given an ovation when he attended as a spectator. Paul Hymans, president of the session, recognized Kellogg in the audience with a cordial speech of appreciation which was applauded enthusiastically by the delegations.

Ambassador Hugh Gibson of the American delegation to the disarmament conference has arranged a dinner in honor of Kellogg tonight to which the chief statesmen now at Geneva and Lausanne have been invited.

Opposition developed from former Gov. Alvan T. Fuller and others, based largely on Frankfurter's advocacy of a new trial for Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, radicals executed for the murder of a paymaster for a shoe company.

MEXICO BARS U. S. MOVIE
Luce Velez, Star of "A La Rota," Also Censured.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, July 6.—The Federal District Government today forbade exhibition of the American motion picture film "A La Rota," featuring Luce Velez, and voted to censure the Mexican actress for allowing herself to be featured in the picture. The department statement said that the picture apparently stirs Mexico, and for that reason it will not be permitted to be shown here.

It was said that if the company continues producing pictures destabilizing Mexico, a boycott may be resorted to. It was understood here the picture is one of the last made by Luce Velez before she went to New York to go on the legitimate stage.

Ryan, rector of the Catholic University at Washington, was confined to his bed here today with a bronchial attack. He was obliged to request the postponement of an audience with Pope Pius XI.

BEATRICE WEBB IN RUSSIA OBJECTS TO ROUGE, LIPSTICK

Wife of Sidney Webb, English
Labor Peer, Says Cosmetics Mark Decadent Capitalism.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, July 6.—Beatrice Webb, 70-year-old British Socialist and economist, returned from an eight-week tour of the Soviet Union today, convinced that Russian women use too much rouge and lipstick. She is the wife of Sidney Webb, first Baron Passfield of Passfield Corner, one of the Labor peers created by the MacDonald Labor Government. Baron Pass-field is in Russia with her.

"Rouge, powder and lipstick," said she, "are characteristic of a decadent civilization. The Russian women have the most beautiful complexions in the world and none of them needs cosmetics at all. The practice is grossly immoral."

It is a shame that Soviet women, enjoying complete equality with men everywhere, should make themselves worse than the men, she said. Some of the young women she saw in a Caucasian resort, she added, were dressed far too smartly for Communist ethics.

SOVIET SOUNDED BY CAPITALIST ON U. S. RECOGNITION

Frederick Pope of New York Suggests to Moscow Officials That They Receive Commissioner.

By the Associated Press.
MOSCOW, July 6.—An unofficial movement to reopen the question of recognition by the United States of the Soviet Government is under way here and there is reason to believe it is received with favor by Soviet officials.

The movement was started by Frederick Pope, New York industrialist, acting in a private capacity. Pope presented to Soviet officials a suggestion that the United States send an unofficial commissioner to Russia as a preliminary to negotiations for the establishment of normal relations.

He laid the matter before a meeting of men high in the Soviet regime, among them V. I. Mesh-lauk, vice-chairman of the State Planning Commission; V. V. Oesinsky, head of the central administration of the National Economic Council; E. V. Rubin, head of the American department of the Commissariat for Foreign Affairs; and Karl Radek, Russia's foremost international political commentator.

He presented, it was learned, an account of "satisfactory" conversations he had held on the subject in certain quarters in Washington just before he sailed for Russia last May.

Pope is expected to return to the United States this month and the prospect is that he will renew his conversations there.

The persistent refusal of the United States to recognize the Soviet Government has been a source of constant disappointment here.
On a previous visit Pope also brought the matter up with individuals with whom he had business contacts as head of the Nitrogen Engineering Corporation.

He said his own interest was personal, as a man who does business with Russia, but he thought both countries would be benefited from a business standpoint by recognition.

"Soviet purchases of industrial equipment in the United States are being held to the minimum possible," he said, "because of the present lack of official relationship between the two countries. Millions of dollars in Soviet orders probably would go to American business firms and industries if this situation were overcome."

Taxes in University City.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
In your columns of June 29 was an article quoting Mayor Eugene D. Ruth of University City as saying that taxes have not increased but that revenue has increased, due to the influx of wealth into University City. This statement was also made by Mayor Ruth and other members of his political organization during the last campaign for election of members of the Board of Aldermen, which statement was the direct cause of his candidate's defeat in that election.

It is difficult for me, and hundreds of others who know, to believe Mayor Ruth's statement when he says that taxes have not increased in University City. In truth and in fact, there are instances where in the last two years taxes have increased 125 per cent. I own a building at 6220 Delmar, on which I paid approximately $600 taxes in 1930. In 1931, the taxes were approximately $1200. There are hundreds of others in University City who have been hit with this prohibitive tax burden, yet in the face of this, Mayor Ruth would tell us that taxes have not been raised in University City and that there are no political parties or factions in University City.

The citizens who have had the opportunity to investigate and know the situation, know that there has been more petty politics played for factional interest in University City than in any other city in the State. Politics in University City has been so positively factional and biased and the wishes of the citizens so positively and definitely ignored, that the citizens as a whole rebelled against it and expressed their dissatisfaction in the last election, in April of this year.

Mayor Ruth's revival party, which he held at Van Horn's, June 28, was staged purely by reason of the fact that his organization wished to revive its political prestige, which it has lost by reason of the selfish ring tactics which have been used in the past few years in University City.

At all times in the history of our country while the people of this country are suffering under the worst depression that most of us have ever known anything about, this should be a time when people should realize that ring politics and factional interests should not be retained and the people should not be misled by petty speeches and petty parties and dinners attended by jobholders to revive their political prestige. The government of communities such as University City should place their affairs in the hands of people who represent the citizens and not political factions or parties.

If Mayor Ruth's statements as to the influx of wealth into University City are true, and with the tremendous decrease in the cost of living, etc., which amounts to approximately 30 per cent, the citizens are asking why is it, then, that taxes have not decreased instead of increasing to a figure as high as 125 per cent.

Expenditures of University City should have been 20 per cent less in 1931 than in 1930, and 20 per cent less in 1932 than in 1931. Therefore, the outlay of governmental expenses for 1932 should be 40 per cent less than in 1930.

The Mayor certainly has not had occasion to examine the tax books lately, or surely he would not say taxes have not increased. WALTER A. HAYES.

Chain Stores in the Courts.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I submit information with which the conclusions of your editorial, "The Chain Store Tax," in the Post-Dispatch of June 23, do not agree.

A North Carolina statute taxing stores in excess of one $50 each was upheld, Sept. 17, 1930, by the Supreme Court of North Carolina (Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v. Maxwell, 139 N. C. 433; 154 S. E. 835), and that decision was affirmed by denial of certiorari by the United States Supreme Court, Oct. 26, 1931 (Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. v. Maxwell, 53 Sup. Ct. Rep. 26).

A South Carolina statute taxing stores by a tax increasing progressively at the rate of $15 per store from $5 for the first store to $150 for the thirtieth store, and $160 for each store in excess of 30, was upheld, Feb. 3, 1932, by the U. S. District Court for the Eastern District of South Carolina (Southern Grocery Stores, Inc. et al. v. South Carolina Tax Commission, 55 F. (2d) 931) by a court consisting of Parker and Northcott, Circuit Judges, and Glenn, District Judge. This case is presently on appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The South Carolina case constituted the first application for an injunction to restrain the collection of a chain-store tax subsequent to the decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Indiana case. In the South Carolina case, an injunction was refused in the first instance, because of the precedent decision of the United States Supreme Court in the Indiana case. The court in the Indiana case pointed the way in case an injunction is sought in connection with the ordinance of the City of St. Louis in the premises, COMMUNITY PROTECTIVE ASSN.,

By E. J. Brennan, Counsel.

The Three Platforms

Three party platforms are now before the country: that of the Republicans, vague, verbose and conservative; that of the Democrats, pointed and liberal; that of the Socialists, by comparison, radical. The theme of the Republican platform is found in its pledge to "strive against the forces that strike at our social and economic ideal, our political institutions"; of the Democratic document in its reaffirmation of the Jeffersonian principle of "equal rights to all, special privileges to none"; of the Socialist in its proposal to "transfer the principal industries of the country from private ownership and cruelly inefficient management to social ownership and democratic control."

Although they agree on many issues, the three platforms present, in the main, three distinct philosophies and three separate programs for political action. They succeed, therefore, in offering the voters a clear choice.

As to Federal finances, Republicans and Democrats both promise reduced expenditures and a balanced budget. The Democrats go the Republicans one better here, by promising a cut of as much as 25 per cent in expenditure, to be obtained by abolishing "useless" commissions and offices, but they do not specify which of the agencies of government they regard as "useless." If the economy ax is to fall indiscriminately on such bodies as the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Power Commission or the Children's Bureau, progressives might well hesitate to support this plan. The Farm Board, which the Democrats elsewhere condemn, we could part with without regret.

On the subject of taxation, where the Republicans are silent, the Democrats endorse the principle of "ability to pay" and the Socialists specifically advocate increases in income and inheritance taxes and the abolition of tax-exempt securities. On veterans' relief, a matter of prime fiscal significance, both major parties would assist those who suffer from disabilities resulting from actual war service. But while Democrats wisely stop here, Republicans go on to say that "disability from causes subsequent to and not attributable to war has been to some measure an accepted obligation of the nation." Should it be so? On this, the platform is silent.

All three parties promise governmental reorganization. The Republicans would give the President power to direct the reorganization of departments and bureaus. The Democrats would abolish "useless" commissions and offices and consolidate existing departments and bureaus. The Socialists, more specifically, demand the direct election of the President and Vice-President, proportional representation, the initiative and referendum, an easier method of amending the Constitution and the abolition of the power of the Supreme Court to declare laws unconstitutional.

Money and banking come in for more attention than in usual in this year of depression. Republicans uphold the gold standard and denounce inflation. Democrats, too, declare their belief in a "sound currency." The former promises a "more stringent" supervision of banking, with out going into detail as to its nature. Both recognize the problem of banking affiliates. The Republicans would inspect them and require them to submit reports. The Democrats would divorce investment banking and investment trusts completely from the commercial banking business.

Both parties refer to the use of bank funds in security speculation. The Republicans promise to "prevent" it. Both favor an international monetary conference, the Republicans to consider the "position" of silver; the Democrats to consider its "rehabilitation." Between these two positions there is, perhaps, little to choose. The Socialists present a radical alternative to both by simply promising the nationalization of the banking system.

When they come to the relations between government and business, both major parties propose to authorize the Federal Power Commission to regulate the charges for electric current when transmitted across state lines. Here the Democrats go much further. They pledge "strict and impartial enforcement of the anti-trust laws" and their "revision for the better protection of labor and the small producer and distributor."

They propose to regulate the security exchanges and holding companies which will securities across state lines, and declare for the "conservation, development and use of the nation's water power in the public interest." To this issue, of course, the Socialists apply the formula of "public ownership and democratic control."

Labor gets words from the Republicans, tangible promises from the Democrats, everything it wants from the Socialists. All three declare for the shorter day and week. The Republicans, in addition, approve high wages, collective bargaining and the restriction of immigration. The Democrats urge the use of Federal credit for unemployment relief, the extension of Federal public works and the enactment of state laws for compulsory unemployment insurance and old age pensions.

The Socialists demand five billions for direct relief, five billions for public works, free public employment agencies, minimum wage laws, abolition of the use of the injunction in labor disputes, outlawry of the yellow dog contract and social insurance against accident, sickness, maternity, unemployment and old age.

All three parties would encourage the development of agricultural co-operatives. The Republicans vaguely promise to support any feasible plan to balance production against demand and thus raise agricultural prices. The Democrats, with equal vagueness, promise the "effective control of crop surpluses" to give the farmer the advantage of the domestic market. Beyond this, however, the Republicans offer to bring about the reduction of crop acreage by taking over lands that are sub-marginal for crop purposes and converting them into watersheds, forests, parks and game preserves. How they are going to do this at the same time that they reduce expenditures and balance the budget they do not say. The Socialists declare for publicly owned marketing agencies, land banks and social insurance against crop failures.

In the field of foreign affairs, there is little difference between the major parties. Both desire disarmament. Both promise to maintain a strong army and navy. Both pledge membership in the World Court. Both support the pact of Paris. Here they stop, and here the Socialist platform is in sharp contrast. It declares, for disarmament by agreement or by example, for the abolition of the military training camps, the R. O. T. C. and conscription in time of war, for the prohibition of the sales of munitions to other Powers, for the abandonment of military intervention in any other nation, for Russian recognition, for membership in the World Court and in the League of Nations. The pacifist and the internationalist can indeed find much more to their liking there than in the platforms of the older parties.

In international economic relationships, the issues are clearly drawn. The Democrats explicitly declare against the cancellation of the war debts. The Socialists promise to cancel them. The Republicans are significantly silent. The Republicans praise the Hawley-Smoot tariff and promise to maintain and raise rates and to extend protection to forests, mines and oil wells. The Democrats denounce the Hawley-Smoot law and promise a "competitive tariff for revenue." The Republicans are for the present Tariff Commission reporting to the President; the Democrats for a "fact-finding tariff commission free from executive interference."

The G. O. P. pledges adherence to the "most-favored-nation" principle, while the Democracy promises to obtain reciprocal trade agreements with other nations and to enter an international conference to bring about a restoration of world trade. On the tariff issue, if not on the debts, there is much hope in the Democratic position.

On prohibition, finally, the division is equally clear. The Republicans, after emptying approving "law enforcement" and "the progress which has been thus far made," promise to submit an amendment which would restore state option while retaining in the Federal Government power to protect the borders of the dry states and prevent the return of the saloon. The Democrats come out unequivocally for repeal, submission and the modification of the Volstead Act. The Socialists, too, favor repeal and state option, and would place the liquor business, where legalized, under public ownership. There is little consolation in any of the platforms for an ultra-dry.

An appraisal of the three platforms reveals, surprisingly enough, that a few new ideas have crept even into the Republican document. Prohibition submission, public purchase of marginal farm lands, regulation of interstate sales of electricity and "more stringent" supervision of banking are new, if not revolutionary. There are many more liberal planks to be found, however, in the Democratic platform.

On prohibition, on the tariff, on unemployment relief and insurance and on the government regulation of business, the Democracy has shown itself to be far in advance of the Grand Old Party. These four issues, indeed, promise to be the outstanding issues of the campaign.

In many particulars the Socialists offer even more to the progressive voter than do the Democrats. The Democratic platform is silent on the question of civil liberty. The Socialists uphold the guarantees of free speech, press and assembly, demand the repeal of the espionage act, call for Federal legislation against lynching and declare that persons should not be deported or excluded from citizenship on account of their political, social or economic beliefs.

On labor, on foreign affairs and on political reform, too, the Socialists present a more liberal program than does Democracy.

On paper, then, Republicanism offers the status quo; Socialism offers the voter an opportunity to register his desire for far more radical changes in our political and economic institutions than the Democracy would approve; and, for the voter who cannot go as far as the Socialists, the Democratic platform, happily, this year offers a genuine alternative to Republican reaction.

TO THE BOYS AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Let it not be said that we have ignored the national convention of the Prohibition party, now being held at Indianapolis. It is a dismal gathering, to be sure, but the dry brethren were never too cheery a lot, even in their years of triumph. Except for Wayne B. Wheeler, whose demeanor at times came dangerously close to rollicking, most of the dry leaders have been dour fellows who find the business of saving their countrymen from the ravages of rum one in which humor has no part.

So if gloom hangs heavily over the Indianapolis convention, that is as it was in the beginning and always will be when dry fellows get together. Yet, in their way, the dries will enjoy themselves hugely, for they believe in the importance of being earnest; and the Republican sprinkles at Chicago followed by the Democratic cloudburst calls more than ever for earnestness. The cause is lost, and lost causes always summon more fanatical zeal than winning ones.

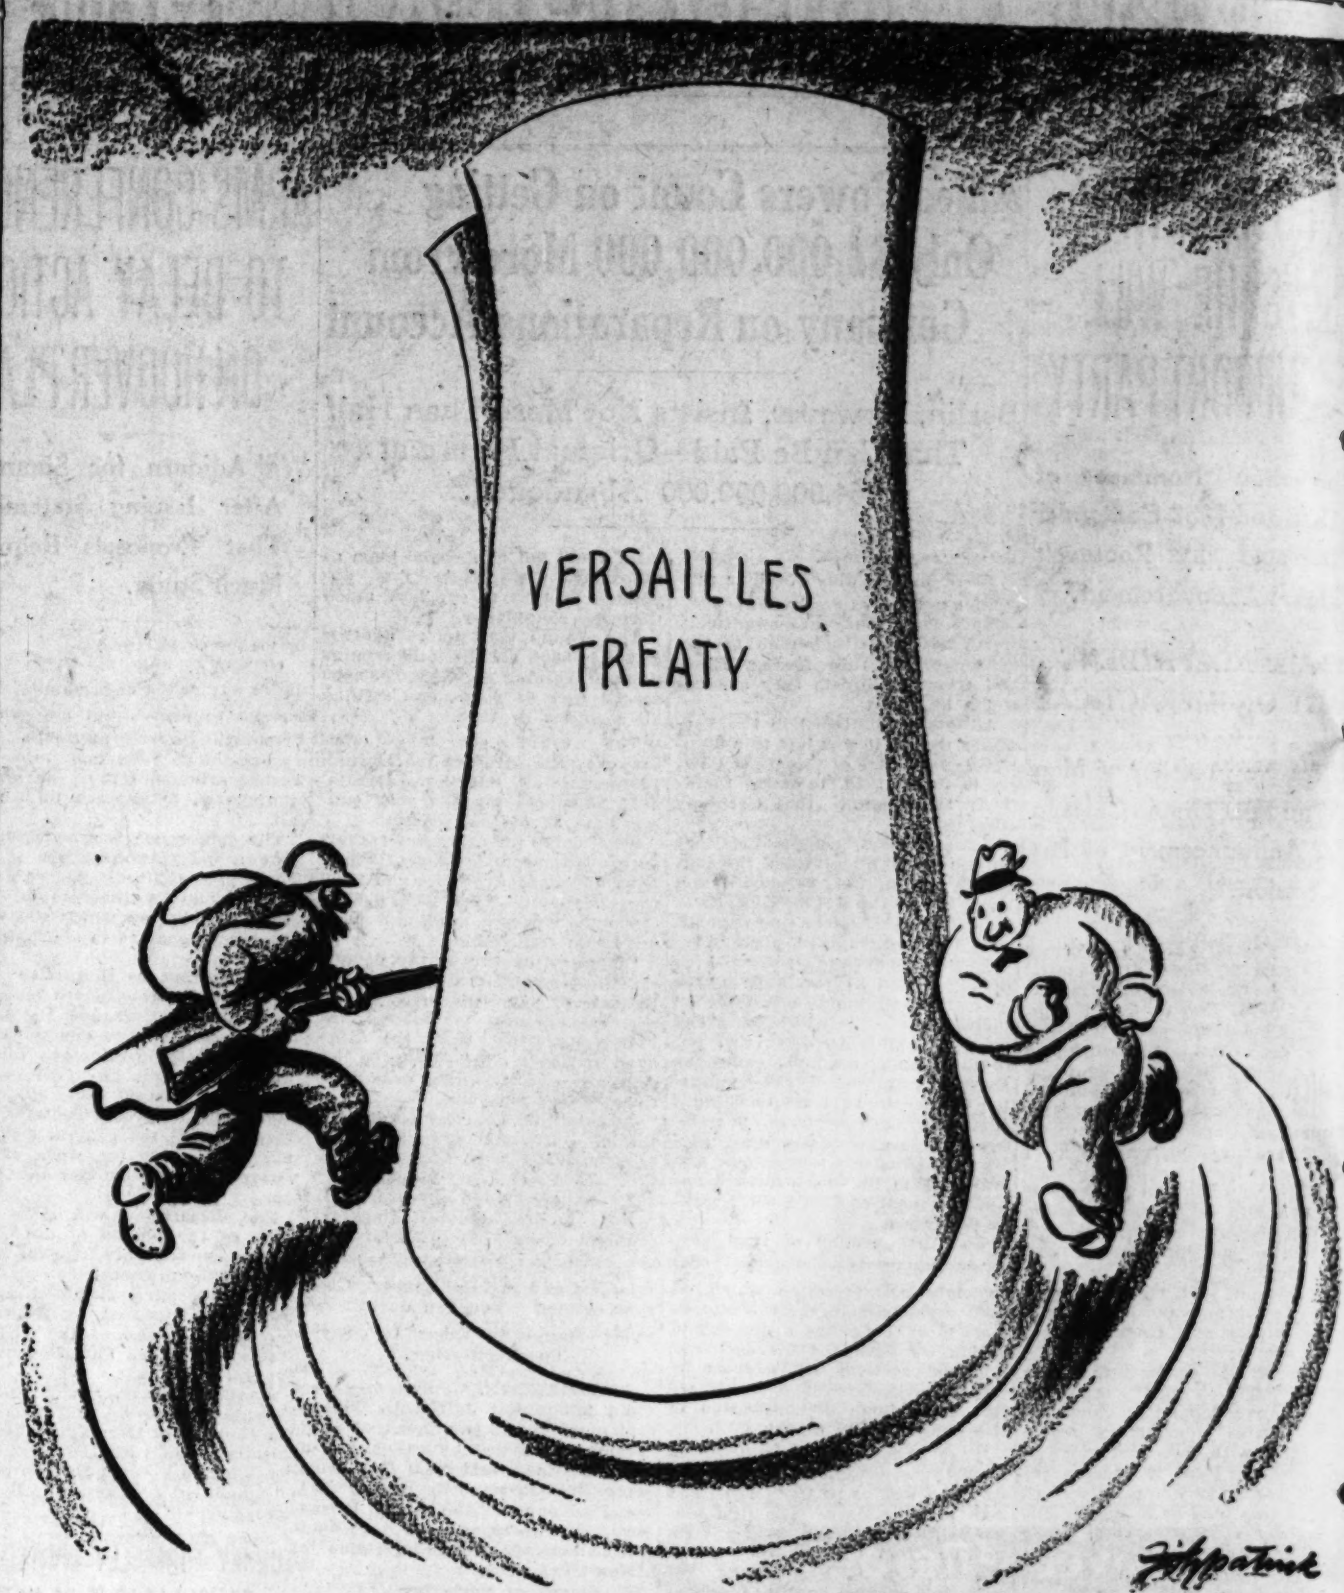

The Indianapolis convention has an outstanding hero on whom to lavish its affections, one other than William E. Borah. They would have Mr. Borah lead them in their fight this fall as a presidential candidate. We caution them against leaning too heavily on the gentleman from Idaho. He is not easily wooed and won, as so ardent and persuasive a courtier as Theodore Roosevelt discovered in 1912. To sum up, we offer a toast to the Indianapolis convention, not in champagne, or in beer or in any liquor, mal, vinous or spirituous, but sorrowfully in water, as more suited to the occasion.

MR. MELLON'S ADVICE.

It is far better for depression-ridden America to add up her remaining assets than to lament her vanished ones, as Ambassador Mellon pointed out in his Independence Day address in London. But forgetting our losses, as Mr. Mellon counsels, is scarcely the way out. There are too many who have lost all—the 3,000,000 or more unemployed—to whom advice to forget about it is merely idle mockery. Mr. Mellon follows the lead of other Pollyannas in reminding us that our vast natural resources, our great industrial organization, the efficiency of our labor, remain unimpaired. That is true, and no one, even our gloomiest pessimists, has attempted to prove otherwise. We are in the position of a man whose house has just burned down. If he is wise, he does not content himself with sitting down and giving thanks for his continued good health. He sets about seeking a shelter for his family for the remainder of the night, and planning to take out insurance and install a few fire extinguishers for the new house he will soon be building.

If we understand him, Bishop Cannon has left the Democratic party for better or worse and forever.

TOO MUCH WEIGHT ON THE FRENCHMAN.

Mr. Kipling's New Book

By Clair Kenamore.

THE first publication in six years by Rudyard Kipling is, according to the advertisement, his "Limits and Renewals," published in America by Doubleday, Doran & Co. Its reception in this country by some of the severe reviewers has been decidedly cool, but to a Kipling fan of the first water, the book brings many delights.

It contains 14 short stories, founded on various themes and built on various frames. Usually the theme is treated both in prose and poetry. Accompanying each story is at least one poem, addressed to one phase of the story.

A consideration of the book, by and large, leads to the opinion that Mr. Kipling has had one or more spells of sickness and that his mind has turned to religious themes. There always has been in his work an understanding of religion, although he has covered this usually with the most vigorous of anti-religious theories, even when such an attitude was not fashionable. It was one of the things which made it impossible that he ever could be a court poet.

There is no new Kiplingian material in this book. It is made up of the old themes which have always held a strong appeal for him, now made over, and exceedingly well done. He shows the same skill in the mechanical handling of his work that he did in his brilliant peak. He has all the old devices at command, but he applies them to themes and schemes and stories that he had suggested before. As always, they breathe the breath of inspiration, and none seems to be studied or labored.

In his poem, "The Last Chantry," written in 1932, Kipling thus quotes the stout Apostle Paul. "Once we frapped a ship and she labored wondrously." He has employed the same thought since that time, but in this book he takes it up in a big way, which apparently he long has wanted to do. The story is "The Manner of Men," and he tells of a ship, bound for Rome under Caesar's guarantee against loss, bearing a cargo of wheat and many Jewish prisoners, among them a little gaunt man, who is the Apostle Paul. The wheat got wet, commenced to swell, so they trapped the ship.

To trap a ship, you run chains or cables or hawsers around her from the deck and make them tight enough to hold the craft from going to pieces when its cargo swells. Now, many sailors say that nobody ever frapped a ship, that it is one of the pieces of dream-seamanship, just one of the tales that sailors tell in port. But they trapped this boat, and the story is told by the men who did it.

It is a grand story, and the thrill comes when, driven by storm onto a hostile shore, the owner, to save his crew and his prisoners, dares to run through a narrow strait between the rocks. Once through the gut, the owner of the smothered of foam and a tiny strip of beach that can be reached only if all the gods favor and the most perfect seamanship serves. The captain wins. He lifts the frapped boat through the passage from going to pieces when its cargo swells. Not a life is lost. His seamen run to him and that the stern has broken out and that his soaked cargo is pouring into the sea. The captain says, in effect, "Never mind that. Just look how I have laid her exactly where I meant to."

"The Church that Was at Antioch" is another story of the early Christians, this one having to do with a young Roman legionnaire, who became converted to the new religion the day he was killed. It is an excellent story and perfectly told, but it will be remembered that Anatole France worked upon these themes and one wonders whether or not the great English master, at his age, can hope to rival the great French one.

The stories which lead one to believe that Mr. Kipling has had much commerce lately with doctors, hospitals and nurses are numerous. In each of them there is the smell of ether, the tone of having descended near to death and having been pulled back again. All of the modern stories have some reference in them to the great war.

One story, "Beauty Spots" of modern day England, is as funny as anything Mr. Kipling has written in 25 years.

"The Miracle of Saint Jubaenus" is in the best Kipling manner, and if it differs from any of his earlier stories of the same kind, it is that a certain mellowness has replaced the virility of the earlier crop.

The last story in the book, "Unconquered Mercies," has to do with certain angels and archangels, all extremely British. The story has a little of "All God's Chillion Got Wings" and a little of the play, "Outward Bound," but it is a good story, as they all are.

Mr. Kipling's persevering and unending antagonism for Americans is shown in this book when opportunity serves. This has always been a difficult thing to account for, the fact that he married an American wife, being far from sufficient to give excuse for his attitude. America has been his great field of profit, but he seems to care nothing for this.

What somebody has called his "amazing technical felicity" is apparent in all these stories and poems. He has the same power that he had 25 years ago, to make unseen words appear by the use of other words upon the surface. In the same generous manner of a quarter of a century ago, he cheerfully breaks all the rules of the masters of poetry and prose, and presents a finished product better than their own.

LOOKING BELOW THE SURFACE.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.
THE Baltimore Association of Commerce has issued a "Declaration of Policy" that deserves more than passing notice. It points out that the three country-faction, national economy and unemployment relief—are susceptible of solution only if and as they are considered in connection with three others, which the association lists as follows:

"There must be a long-term program for removal of existing artificial trade barriers and stimulants, and for scaling down to reasonable levels bonuses, bounties and tariff schedules.

"There must be a solution of the international economic problem, a recognition that we are not economically independent in the international sense, and, without strings or exemptions, a willingness to join in world economic conferences where debts, reparations and tariffs may be discussed on a basis of give as well as take.

"Limited Satisfaction"

From the Kansas City Journal-Post.

PRESIDENT HOOVER signed the economy bill, but said he did so "with limited satisfaction." It is easy to understand his attitude, for the economies contained in the bill are very limited. The satisfaction of the taxpayers also is limited.

It is estimated that the measure will save $150,000,000. What makes this pitiful sum all the more outrageous is the fact that Federal expenditures, exclusive of debt retirement and interest, totaled roughly $1,944,000,000 in the fiscal year ended in 1931, while they will total approximately $1,195,100,000 in the fiscal year just drawing to a close.

An increase of $1,231,100,000 in five years! An increase of 63 per cent in five years! An increase in the face of the worst depression in the history of the country! An increase amidst a chorus of economic promises of politicians. But after the election, if the popular demand for it is strong, Congress, with the next election two years away, can muster enough courage to trim the budget in an adequate fashion.

Thus the cause of economy is lost for the time being. The only thing that people can now do is wait for November and an opportunity to elect the office holders who have been indifferent to waste. The harder they are swatted, the more their successors will be impressed.

One thing that must limit the satisfaction taken by Mr. Hoover in the economy bill is the fact that when hearings were being held on it, members of his Cabinet appeared before the committees to oppose proposed reductions in their departmental budgets. If that had not happened, the President would have been able to criticize Congress severely for its refusal to save more than a measly $150,000,000.

THE WORLD'S CREPE BAND.

From the Cleveland Press.
WOMAN lobbyists at the Geneva disarmament conference paint a picture of the havoc of war that statesmen should heed. Set side by side, the coffins of the 11,000,000 dead soldiers and the 24,000,000 others who died of blockades, starvation, epidemics and other related causes in the World War, the women say, would create a black band 12,000 miles long, or a band that would go half-way around the earth at the equator. Another world war would extend this crepe band the rest of the way around the globe.

These war dead, if they marched abreast at intervals of two seconds from dawn to dusk, would require 162 days to pass a reviewing stand. In dollars it cost $18,000 to kill each soldier. Hence the cost of this one war was $20,000 for every hour since the birth of Christ.

The men at Geneva, being urged to set down the weapons of destruction, and Lausanne, being asked to ease the war burdens from Germany's shoulders, should ponder this picture, and resolve to do their part to prevent another such catastrophe.
